In consideration of the foregoing, the Commission amends Part 381, Chapter I, Title 18, Code of Federal Regulations, to

I. Introduction

1. By this final rule, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (Commission) is amending 18 CFR 375.203(b), which specifies the roles available to the public at the Commission’s open meetings. This rule utilizes language from the Federal Communication Commission’s (FCC) open meeting regulation, 16 CFR 1013.4, to clarify that members of the public may record open meetings in a non-disruptive manner. The rule imposes no new obligations on the public.

II. Background

2. The Commission has recently experienced multiple disruptions to its open meetings from individual protesters. The disruptions have consisted of members of the public making unscheduled statements, standing up repeatedly, walking about the room, and displaying signs.

3. The Commission’s regulations outline the roles available to the public at the Commission’s open meetings. Specifically, 18 CFR 375.203(b) states that “[m]embers of the public are invited to listen and observe at open meetings.”

4. Like the Commission, other Federal agencies limit the conduct of the public at open meetings. Several other agencies have regulations on open meetings that expressly address disruptive conduct by members of the public and their removal for such conduct. The language of the rules of the FCC, EEOC, and the Rural Telephone Bank are particularly useful in clarifying the term “observe” as it appears in the Commission’s regulations. The FCC, EEOC, and the Rural Telephone Bank define “observation” as not including disruptive conduct. Furthermore, the FCC’s regulation addresses documents that an unscheduled presenter might seek to deliver at an open meeting, prohibiting their entry into the FCC’s official record.

Another related topic is possible disruption stemming from observers’ use of personal electronic recording devices at open meetings. The applicable provision of the Commission’s regulations, 18 CFR 375.203(b), allows members of the public to record open meetings in a non-disruptive manner. Other agencies similarly permit the recording of open meetings in a non-disruptive manner.

The language adopted by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, stating that “[t]o the extent their use does not interfere with the conduct of open meetings, cameras and sound-recording equipment may be used at open Commission meetings,” is particularly succinct in making this point.

III. Discussion

6. The Commission is concerned about the impact of public disruptions on its ability to conduct open meetings. To ensure compliance with the Government in the Sunshine Act, it is essential that the Commission’s open meetings focus on the issues listed in the posted agenda. Members of the public do not have a right to disrupt open meetings or to raise extraneous issues.

7. The Commission is issuing this Final Rule to clarify that the term “observe” used in §375.203(b) of its regulation, has the same meaning as the term “observation” in the regulations of the FCC and the Rural Telephone Bank. Thus, this rule merely clarifies that the term “observe” as used in §375.203(b) does not mean the right to disrupt. The rule gives the Commission no new authority, and it imposes no obligations on the public that do not currently exist. The public already has an obligation to avoid disruptive conduct at the Commission’s open meetings.

8. The final rule also addresses the possibility that when disruptive conduct involves the reading of unscheduled statements, those statements could trigger potential violations of the Government in the Sunshine Act notice provisions, the ex parte communications provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act, and the Commission’s ex parte communications rule, 18 CFR 385.2201. Specifically, incorporating language from Section 0.602(c) of the FCC’s regulations into the Commission’s regulations clarifies that disruptive statements, oral or written, will not be included in the record or considered by the Commission.

9. Finally, the Commission recognizes that its existing regulations concerning recording open meetings are unduly complex and out of date. The Commission is therefore amending its regulation to clarify that seated members of the public, or seated observers, may use electronic audio and visual recording equipment to record open meetings in a non-disruptive manner. In this regard, the Commission is utilizing language similar to that used by the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

IV. Information Collection Statement

10. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) regulations require OMB to approve certain information collection requirements imposed by agency rule. However, this instant Final Rule does not contain any information collection requirements. Therefore, compliance with OMB regulations is not required.

V. Environmental Analysis

11. The Commission is required to prepare an Environmental Assessment or an Environmental Impact Statement for any action that may have a significant adverse effect on the human environment. Issuance of this Final Rule does not represent a major federal action having a significant adverse effect on the human environment under the Commission’s regulations implementing the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. Part 380 of the Commission’s regulations lists exemptions to the requirement to draft an Environmental Analysis or Environmental Impact Statement. Included is an exemption for procedural, ministerial, or internal administrative actions. This rulemaking is exempt under that provision.

VI. Regulatory Flexibility Act

12. The Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (RFA) generally requires a
By the Commission.

Secretary.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Commission amends Part 375, Chapter I, Title 18, Code of Federal Regulations, as follows:

PART 375—THE COMMISSION

§ 375.203 Open meetings.

(b) * * * * *

(1) * * * *

(i) “Observe” does not include participation or disruptive conduct, and persons engaging in such conduct will be removed from the meeting.

(ii) The right of the public to observe open meetings does not alter those rules which relate to the filing of motions, pleadings, or other documents. Unless such pleadings conform to the other procedural requirements, pleadings based upon comments or discussions at open meetings, as a general rule, will not become part of the official record, will receive no consideration, and no further action by the Commission will be taken thereon.

(2) To the extent their use does not interfere with the conduct of open meetings, electronic audio and visual recording equipment may be used by a seated observer at an open meeting.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

In the Federal Register of December 1, 2014 (79 FR 71156), we issued a final rule requiring nutrition labeling of standard menu items in restaurants and similar retail food establishments (the final rule). The final rule, which is codified at 21 CFR 101.11, is effective December 1, 2015.

We examined the economic implications of the final rule as required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601–612) and determined that the final rule will have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. In compliance with section 212 of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act (Pub. L. 104–121, as amended by Pub. L. 110–28), we are making available the SECG to explain the actions that a small entity must take to comply with the rule.
