This section also authorizes the Secretary to set limitations on such employment as to time, number, proportion, and length of service. The regulations at 29 CFR part 520 contain the provisions that implement the section 14(a) requirements. Form WH-205 is the application an employer uses to obtain a certificate to employ student-learners at wages lower than the federal minimum wage. Form WH-209 is the application an employer uses to request a certificate authorizing the employer to employ learners and/or messengers at subminimum wage rates. Regulations issued by the DOL's Office of Apprenticeship no longer permit the payment of subminimum wages to apprentices in an approved program; therefore, DOL has not issued apprentice certificates since 1987. See 29 CFR 29.5(b)(5). However, the WHD must maintain the information collection for apprentice certificates in order for the agency to fulfill its statutory obligation under FLSA to maintain this program. No revisions to these forms are proposed at this time.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Reagan-Udall Foundation for the FDA (the Foundation) is an independent

501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization created by Congress to advance the mission of FDA to modernize medical, veterinary, food, food ingredient, and cosmetic product development; accelerate innovation; and enhance product safety. The Foundation acts as a neutral third party to establish novel, scientific collaborations. With the ultimate goal of improving public health, the Foundation provides a unique opportunity for different sectors (FDA, patient groups, academia, other government entities, and industry) to work together in a transparent way to create exciting new research projects to advance regulatory science.

Big Data for Patients (BD4P), a new program led by the Foundation, will bring together multiple stakeholder groups to leverage collective knowledge, technical expertise, funding, and other resources, to create a state-of-the-art patient training program and online community focused on the opportunities and challenges posed by Big Data.

BD4P will empower patients and advocates with the language and concepts of data science, as well as critical appraisal skills, so they can effectively and actively participate in health research involving Big Data. Given the high profile of health research and initiatives using Big Data, combined with the growing efforts to make healthcare and medical research more patient-centered, it is critical that patients have a voice and active role in this work. It is still not completely understood how Big Data research will impact patient health care and medical decision making. BD4P presents an opportunity to ensure that patients are adequately informed and prepared to participate in this work, rather than being left out or left behind.

Development of the program will be a fully collaborative process, with patients and key stakeholders involved in shaping the program every step of the way—from prioritizing topics for program content and input on program design, to actually taking the training program and providing feedback to evaluate the program and make improvements. We will ensure that the focus is not only on the impact of Big Data on patients, but also the impact that patients can have on Big Data research. For additional information on the BD4P program, visit the Reagan-Udall Foundation Web site: <http://bit.ly/1HkhSOq>.
