Abstract: The Consumer Financial Protection Act of 2010 (the “Act”) directs the Bureau to facilitate the coordinated collection, monitoring, and response to consumer complaints regarding certain financial products and services. The Act further provides for consumer complaint information sharing between the Bureau and State and Federal agencies (“Agencies”) and for consumer complaint sharing and reporting to Congress. To fulfill these mandates, the Bureau has developed separate portals for Agencies and Congressional users as part of its secure web portal offerings (the “Government Portal” and the “Congressional Portal,” respectively).

Through the portals, Agencies and Congressional offices can view consumer submitted complaint data in a user-friendly format that allows easy identification of complaints currently active in the Bureau’s process, complaints referred to a prudential federal regulator and other closed/archived complaints. The portals include features for Agencies and Congressional offices to export selected complaint data and search by company, consumer name, consumer financial product and more. They also allow Agencies and Congressional offices to identify whether a named company has responded to a complaint and view the company closure response category.

Comments were solicited and continue to be invited on: (a) Whether the collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Bureau, including whether the information will have practical utility; (b) The accuracy of the Bureau’s estimate of the burden of the collection of information, including the validity of the methods and the assumptions used; (c) Ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and (d) Ways to minimize the burden of the collection of information on respondents, including through the use of automated collection techniques or other forms of information technology.
