Rule 6.23C Technical Disconnect

(a) When a CBOE Application Server (“CAS”) loses communication with a Client Application such that a CAS does not receive an appropriate response to a Heartbeat Request within “x” period of time, the Technical Disconnect Mechanism will automatically logoff the Trading Permit Holder’s affected Client Application and automatically cancel all the Trading Permit Holder’s Market-Maker quotes, if applicable, and open orders with a time-in-force of “day” resting in the Book (which excludes orders resting on a PAR workstation or order management terminal) (“day orders”), if the Trading Permit Holder enables that optional service, posted through the affected Client Application. The following describes how the Technical Disconnect Mechanism works for each of the Exchange’s application programming interfaces (“APIs”):

(i)–(ii) No change.

(b)–(c) No change.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization’s Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

Rule 6.23C(a) provides that when a CBOE Application Server (“CAS”)³ loses communication with a Client Application⁴ such that a CAS does not receive an appropriate response to a Heartbeat Request⁵ within “x” period of time, the Technical Disconnect Mechanism will automatically logoff the Trading Permit Holder’s (“TPH”) affected Client Application. If that occurs, the current rule provides that the Technical Disconnect Mechanism, if applicable, will automatically cancel all the TPH’s Market-Maker quotes posted through the affected Client

³ CBOE currently has numerous CASs serving TPHs.

⁴ For relevant purposes, a “Client Application” is the system component, such as a CBOE-supported workstation or a TPH’s custom trading application, through which a TPH communicates its quotes and/or orders to a CAS. Messages are passed between a Client Application and a CAS. A Market-Maker may send quotes to the Exchange from one or more Client Applications, and a TPH may send orders to the Exchange from one or more Client Applications.

Application.⁶ The Technical Disconnect Mechanism is intended to help mitigate the potential risks associated with a loss of communication with a Client Application, such as erroneous or unintended executions for stale quotes that are resting in the CBOE book. This mechanism serves to assist a TPH when a technical or system issue occurs, as well as assist the Exchange in maintaining a fair and orderly market.

Recently, the Exchange amended Rule 6.23C related to the Technical Disconnect Mechanism to provide TPHs with an optional service that, if enabled by a TPH, will cause the Technical Disconnect Mechanism to also automatically cancel all the TPH's open orders with a time-in-force of "day" ("day orders") posted through the affected Client Application if the CAS loses communication with the Client Application.⁷ This optional service is an additional preventative risk control measure that CBOE is making available to TPHs. It is intended to help further mitigate the potential risks associated with a loss of communication with a TPH's Client Application. If a TPH's Client Application is disconnected for any period of time, it is possible that market conditions upon which it based its day orders may change during that time and make those orders stale. Consequently, any resulting executions of those orders may be erroneous or unintended.

The proposed rule change provides that this optional service will automatically cancel open orders with a time-in-force of day that are resting on the book, but not resting on a PAR workstation or order management terminal ("OMT").⁸ A TPH's day orders resting in the book may automatically execute against incoming quotes or orders and are thus subject to the risk of potential erroneous or unintended executions if the CAS loses communication with the TPH's Client Application, which risk the optional service is intended to mitigate. However, the TPH's day orders resting on a PAR workstation or OMT are subject to manual handling by a broker, agent or PAR official, as applicable, and are not subject to automatic execution against incoming quotes or orders. This manual handling mitigates the risk of potential erroneous or unintended executions of those orders, even during a time when the TPH is disconnected from the CAS, as an individual can determine how to handle the orders in accordance with CBOE's rules. The Exchange believes it is appropriate to have the Technical Disconnect Mechanism cancel only day orders resting on the book but not day orders resting on a PAR workstation or OMT terminal, since manual handling of those orders has already mitigated the applicable risk.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes the proposed rule change is consistent with the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Act") and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to the Exchange and, in particular, the requirements of Section 6(b) of the Act.⁹ Specifically, the Exchange believes the proposed rule change is consistent with the Section 6(b)(5)¹⁰ requirements that the rules of an exchange be designed to prevent fraudulent and manipulative acts and practices, to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to foster cooperation and coordination with persons engaged in regulating, clearing, settling, processing information with respect to, and facilitating transactions in securities, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general, to protect investors and the public interest. Additionally, the Exchange believes the proposed rule change is consistent with the Section 6(b)(5)¹¹ requirement that the rules of an exchange not be designed to permit unfair discrimination between customers, issuers, brokers, or dealers.

In particular, the proposed rule change helps maintain a fair and orderly market, promotes efficiency and protects investors. While the optional service to have the Technical Disconnect Mechanism cancel a TPH's day orders mitigates the risks of potential erroneous or unintended executions of those orders associated with a loss in communication with a Client Application, those risks have already been mitigated for day orders resting on a PAR workstation or OMT that are subject to manual handling. Thus, the Exchange believes it is reasonable to not have the Technical Disconnect Mechanism cancel those orders and instead allow the broker, agent or PAR Official, as applicable, to handle those orders as the individual deems appropriate in accordance with CBOE's rules. The Exchange also believes that the proposed rule change is designed to not permit unfair discrimination among market participants, as it applies to all TPHs in the same manner. The Exchange believes it is appropriate to apply this optional cancellation functionality to day orders only resting on the book and not day orders resting on a PAR workstation or OMT, because the latter orders are not subject to the same risks of potential erroneous or unintended executions as the former orders.

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

CBOE does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. Specifically, the Exchange does not believe the proposed rule change will cause any burden on intramarket competition because the proposed rule change applies to all TPHs in the same manner. Use of the service to cancel day orders resting on the book in the event the CAS loses communication with a Client Application is voluntary. Additionally, whether a TPH enables the optional service or not, the TPH's day orders resting on a PAR workstation or OMT will continue to be manually handled as they are today, even if the CAS loses communication with a TPH's Client Application. The Exchange believes it is appropriate to apply this optional cancellation functionality to day orders resting only on the book and not on a PAR workstation or OMT, because, as discussed above, those orders are not subject to the same risks of potential erroneous or unintended executions as the orders resting on the book. Further, the Exchange does not believe that such change will impose any burden on intermarket competition that is not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. The proposed rule change modifies a mechanism available on CBOE's system and applies only to orders resting in CBOE's book.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

The Exchange neither solicited nor received comments on the proposed rule change.

The Exchange has not yet implemented this optional service and will announce the implementation date of the service, including the proposed rule change, by Regulatory Circular.
