SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

1. Background

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) Steel Committee has recently noted mounting challenges in the global steel sector. According to the OECD Secretariat, global crude steelmaking capacity more than doubled from 2000 to 2014, with global capacity growth led by an unprecedented expansion in capacity by China. Global steelmaking capacity is projected by the OECD to grow even further in the 2015 to 2017 period, to 2,323 million metric tons (MMT), approximately 700 MMT in excess of global steel demand in 2015.

At the same time, global demand for steel is weakening. In October 2015, the World Steel Association (worldsteel), the global steel producers’ industry association, lowered its forecasts for world steel demand, estimating that demand decreased by 1.7 percent in 2015. Global production also decreased by 2.8 percent in 2015 over 2014 levels. Despite significant production and demand decreases, world steel exports have increased by more than 4 percent between January–July 2015 relative to the same period in 2014, according to the OECD.

Changes in the economy in China, the world’s largest consumer, producer and exporter of steel, are having impacts globally. Demand for steel in China is estimated by worldsteel to have contracted by 5 percent in 2015 over 2014 levels, more than previously anticipated, while steel production decreased by only 2.2 percent and exports increased by 26 percent in 2015 over 2014 levels. Steel production by the European Union, India, South Korea, Brazil and China are having impacts on world steel markets and softening worldwide markets and softening worldwide markets.

Many countries have responded to sharp increases of steel imports from China and other countries by taking a variety of trade remedy measures.

At the 79th meeting of the OECD Steel Committee in December 2015, the United States and the governments of other major steel producing countries noted that “demand weakness coupled with further increases in steelmaking capacity over the next few years—in an environment of already low steel prices, unsustainably weak profitability, and mounting debt—suggests that adjustment pressures are likely to grow significantly in the short to medium term.” The OECD Steel Committee called for immediate action to address the excess capacity challenge and its impact in the steel sector.

The U.S. Government is interested in obtaining stakeholder views on the global steel industry situation and its impact on the U.S. steel industry and market, as well as other U.S. industry sectors that may have concerns about the impact of excess capacity on their particular market. USTR and Commerce note that there are a number of on-going antidumping and countervailing duty investigations and administrative reviews on steel imports in progress. These proceedings are not the subject of this Public Comment and Hearing request. Commenters should note that Commerce will not place the information responsive to this request for public information in the record of its antidumping and countervailing duty proceedings and will not consider such information in its proceedings.

2. Public Comment and Hearing

USTR and Commerce invite written comments and/or oral testimony of interested persons on issues including, but not limited to, the following: (a) Status and causes of the excess capacity situation in the global steel industry, including other factors that impact the global steel market (e.g., contracting markets and softening worldwide demand, weak raw material prices, and government support and policies that encourage capacity expansion as well as exports); (b) countries and policies of concern; (c) status of the U.S. steel market, steel manufacturing supply chain and demand trends; (d) impacts of foreign trade barriers, unfair trade practices, subsidies and other policies on U.S. imports and exports of steel; (e) the current and potential future impact of excess global steelmaking capacity on U.S. steel producing companies, U.S. workers, suppliers to the U.S. steel industry (e.g., iron ore, ferrous scrap, and other raw materials), U.S. steel consuming manufacturers, and States, localities and communities; (f) U.S. steel industry responses and adjustment to the impact of the global market situation on their business and overall competitiveness, including trade remedy and other U.S. enforcement actions, industry cost savings efforts and participation in U.S. export markets; (g) other sectors in which excess capacity impacts their particular industry in the United States and may merit further consideration; and (h) views on whether further enforcement tools or approaches, or legislative action are needed. Written comments must be received no later than 11:59 p.m., March 29, 2016. A hearing will be held on April 12, 2016, in the Main Hearing Room, 500 E Street SW., Washington, DC 20436, in the facilities of the U.S. International Trade Commission. Persons wishing to testify at the hearing must provide written notification of their intention by 11:59 p.m., March 29, 2016. The intent to testify notification must be made in the “Type Comment” field under docket number USTR–2016–0001 on the www.regulations.gov Web site and should include the name, address and telephone number of the person presenting the testimony. A summary of the testimony should be attached by using the “Upload File” field. The name of the file should also include who will be presenting the testimony.
