The Hawaii Island Burial Council was invited to consult but did not participate.

History and Description of the Remains

In 1968, human remains representing, at minimum, two individuals were removed from the Thompson House Lot Site in Hawai'i County, HI. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

In 1968, human remains representing, at minimum, three individuals were removed from the Beach Site in Hawai'i County, HI. No known individuals were identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

The Thompson House site is composed of traditional Hawaiian habitation features, including no less than four structures likely consisting of a mua (men's house), hale noa (family house), hale kahumu (cooking shelter), and a hale 'aina (women's eating house). It has been suggested that the site may have been one of the homes of Kīwala'ō, Kamehameha's adversary, who often resided in Hōnaunau.

The remains from the Beach Site were removed from a buried cultural layer that contained no European material, indicating that they are Native Hawaiian.

Kekuewa (Moanauli), Lindo, Medeiros (Kalalahua), Ramos (Kahikina) and the Office of Hawaiian Affairs.
