submitter can resubmit the request with appropriate supporting documentation.

- Scenario 4: When the HHA provides the treatment to the beneficiary and submits the claim to the MAC for payment without submitting a pre-claim review request, the home health claim will be stopped for prepayment review and documentation will be requested. If the claim is determined to be not medically necessary or not sufficiently documented, the claim will be denied and all current policies and procedures regarding liability for payment will apply. The HHA, the beneficiary, or both can appeal the claim denial if they believe the claim was payable. If the claim is determined to be payable on appeal, it will be paid. After the first 3 months of the demonstration, we will reduce payment by 25 percent for claims that after such prepayment review are deemed payable but did not first receive a pre-claim review decision. This payment reduction is not subject to appeal. After a claim is submitted, processed, and denied, appeal rights for the claim denial would become available in accordance with 42 CFR part 405, subpart I. The 25-percent payment reduction cannot be charged to the beneficiary. The beneficiary would not be liable for more than he or she would otherwise be if the demonstration were not in place.

Description: The Administration for Children and Families (ACF) within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) intends to collect data on a third cohort of children and families for the National Survey of Child and Adolescent Well-Being (NSCAW).
