with the requirements of this part. This obligation continues throughout the entire record retention period described in §1904.33. See §§1904.4(a); 1904.32(a)(1); 1904.33(b)(1); and 1904.40(a).

6. Revise the heading and paragraphs (a) and (b)(1) of §1904.32 to read as follows:

§1904.32 Year-end review and annual summary.
(a) Basic requirement. At the end of each calendar year, you must:
(1) Review that year’s OSHA 300 Log to verify that it contains accurate entries for all recordable injuries and illnesses that occurred during the year; make any additions or corrections necessary to ensure its accuracy;
(2) Verify that each injury and illness recorded on the 300 Log, including any injuries and illnesses added to the Log following your year-end review pursuant to paragraph (a)(1) of this section, is accurately recorded on a corresponding 301 Incident Report form;
(3) After you have verified the accuracy of the Log, create an annual summary of injuries and illnesses recorded on the Log:
(4) Certify the summary; and
(5) Post the summary.

(b) How extensively do I have to review the OSHA 300 Log at the end of the year? You must review the Log and its entries as extensively as necessary to verify that all recordable injuries and illnesses that occurred during the year are entered and that the Log and its entries are accurate.

§1904.33 Retention and maintenance of accurate records.
(a) Basic requirement. Other than the obligation identified in §1904.32, do I have further recording duties with respect to the OSHA 300 Logs and 301 Incident Reports during the five-year retention period? You must make the following additions and corrections to the OSHA Log and Incident Reports during the five-year retention period:
(i) The OSHA Logs must contain entries for all recordable injuries and illnesses that occurred during the calendar year to which each Log relates. In addition, each and every recordable injury and illness must be recorded on an Incident Report. This means that if a recordable case occurred and you failed to record it on the Log for the year in which the injury or illness occurred, and/or on an Incident Report, you are under a continuing obligation to record the case on the Log and/or Incident Report during the five-year retention period for that Log and/or Incident Report;
(ii) You must also make any additions and corrections to the OSHA Log that are necessary to accurately reflect any changes that have occurred with respect to previously recorded injuries and illnesses. Thus, if the classification, description, or outcome of a previously recorded case changes, you must remove or line out the original entry and enter the new information; and
(iii) You must have an Incident Report for each and every recordable injury and illness; however, you are not required to make additions or corrections to Incident Reports during the five-year retention period.

(b) Do I have to make additions or corrections to the annual summary during the five-year retention period? You are not required to make additions or corrections to the annual summaries during the five-year retention period.

7. Revise the heading and paragraph (b) of §1904.33 to read as follows:

§1904.34 Change in business ownership.
If your business changes ownership, you are responsible for recording and reporting work-related injuries and illnesses only for that period of the year during which you owned the establishment. You must transfer the Part 1904 records to the new owner. The new owner must save all records of the establishment kept by the prior owner, as required by §1904.33, but need not update or correct the records of the prior owner. The new owner is not responsible for recording and reporting work-related injuries and illnesses that occurred before the new owner took ownership of the establishment.

8. Revise paragraphs (b)(2) introductory text and (b)(2)(iii) of §1904.35 to read as follows:

§1904.35 Employee involvement.
(a) Basic requirement. When an authorized government representative requests the records you keep under part 1904, you must provide accurate records, or copies thereof, within four (4) business hours of the request.
