

detering employees holding national security clearances from becoming insider threats, detecting insiders who pose a risk to the protected information, and mitigating risks. The establishment of an NRC ITP is intended to achieve these goals with respect to all NRC employees, contractors, and detailees with national security clearances and access to information classified under E.O. 13526 or section 142 of the AEA or that is safeguards information under section 147 of the AEA.

3. Applicability. This policy is applicable to all NRC employees, contractors, and detailees to the NRC from other government agencies who have national security clearances and access to information classified under E.O. 13526 or section 142 of the AEA or that is safeguards information under section 147 of the AEA.

4. Policy. It is NRC policy that:

(a) All NRC employees, contractors, and detailees must comply with the requirements of all current and applicable Federal laws, regulations, and policies concerning the responsible sharing and safeguarding of classified information. This includes reporting insider threat information related to potential espionage, violent acts against the Government or the Nation, and unauthorized access to or disclosure of information classified under E.O. 13526 or section 142 of the AEA or that is safeguards information under section 147 of the AEA, and any such information that is available on interconnected U.S. Government computer networks and systems.

(b) Consistent with established law and policy, including the Privacy Act, the ITP uses information made available to it to identify, analyze, and respond to potential insider threats at the NRC. The ITP itself does not maintain or store any personal information. The information is maintained by the program office in which the information resides.

(c) All NRC employees, contractors, and detailees involved in any ITP actions (including, but not limited to, gathering information or conducting inquiries) do so in accordance with all applicable Federal laws, regulations, and policies, including those pertaining to whistleblower protections, civil liberties, civil rights, criminal rights, personnel records, medical records, and privacy rights. The ITP consults with and obtains the concurrence of the NRC's Office of the General Counsel (OGC) on questions concerning these legal protections in insider threat activities, inquiries, assistance in investigations by law enforcement authorities, and other matters.

(d) The ITP refers to the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) information indicating that classified information is being, or may have been, disclosed in an unauthorized manner to a foreign power or an agent of a foreign power, in accordance with 50 U.S.C. 3381(e). Subject to an appropriate inquiry by the ITP, other information indicating unauthorized access to or misuse of classified information, classified networks, or safeguards information is referred to the NRC's Office of Inspector General (OIG). OGC will provide ongoing legal advice to the ITP as appropriate.
