

The Exchange believes that the proposed changes to the rebates and fees for participation in a cPRIME Auction are not going to have an impact on intra-market competition based on the total cost for participants to transact in such order types versus the cost for participants to transact in the other order types available for trading on the Exchange. As noted above, the Exchange believes that the proposed changes in the rebates and fees for the cPRIME Auction are comparable to that of other exchanges offering similar electronic price improvement mechanisms for complex orders and the Exchange believes that, based on experience with electronic price improvement crossing mechanisms on other markets, market participants understand that the price-improving benefits offered by the cPRIME Auction justify the transaction costs associated with the cPRIME Auction. To the extent that there is a difference between non-cPRIME Auction transactions and cPRIME Auction transactions, the Exchange does not believe this difference will cause participants to refrain from responding to cPRIME Auctions.

With respect to cPRIME Auctions, the Exchange notes that Cboe caps its fees at $0.50 per contract in its complex order auction mechanisms. And NYSE American does not assess its surcharge in its paired complex auction mechanism. As proposed, the Exchange will apply its surcharge in its single-sided complex auction mechanism (COA), but it will not apply the surcharge in its paired complex auction mechanism (cPRIME). Accordingly, as proposed to be expanded, the Exchange's surcharge will be more in line with Cboe's and NYSE American's surcharges, but it will be no more expansive than either such exchange.⁵¹ Because the Complex Surcharge will not be applied in its cPRIME Auction, the Exchange believes that the proposed rule change will not impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.

The Exchange notes that it operates in a highly competitive market in which market participants can readily favor competing venues if they deem fee levels at a particular venue to be excessive. In such an environment, the Exchange must continually adjust its fees to remain competitive with other exchanges and to attract order flow. The Exchange believes that the proposed rule change reflects this competitive environment because they modify the Exchange's fees in a manner that encourages market participants to provide liquidity and to send order flow to the Exchange.

Section 19(b)(3)(A)³ of the Act and Rule 19b-4(f)(1)⁴ thereunder so that the proposal was effective upon filing with the Commission. The Commission is publishing this notice to solicit comments on the proposed rule change from interested persons.

I. Clearing Agency's Statement of the Terms of Substance of the Proposed Rule Change

OCC proposes to make clarifying and conforming changes to its Margin Policy and Margins Methodology related to enhancements to OCC's margin methodology that were recently approved by the Commission. The proposed changes to the Margin Policy and Margins Methodology are included as confidential Exhibits 5A and 5B, respectively. Material proposed to be added to the Margin Policy and Margins Methodology as currently in effect is underlined and material proposed to be deleted is marked in strikethrough text. All capitalized terms not defined herein have the same meaning as set forth in the OCC By-Laws and Rules.⁵

II. Clearing Agency's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, OCC included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. OCC has prepared summaries, set forth in sections (A), (B), and (C) below, of the most significant aspects of these statements.

(A) Clearing Agency's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

(1) Purpose

Background

OCC's margin methodology, the System for Theoretical Analysis and Numerical Simulations ("STANS"), is OCC's proprietary risk management system that calculates Clearing Member margin requirements.⁶ STANS utilizes large-scale Monte Carlo simulations to forecast price and volatility movements in determining a Clearing Member's margin requirement.⁷ The STANS margin requirement is calculated at the portfolio level of Clearing Member accounts with positions in marginable securities and consists of an estimate of a 99% expected shortfall⁸ over a two-day time horizon and an add-on margin charge for model risk (the concentration/dependence stress test charge).⁹ The STANS methodology is used to measure the exposure of portfolios of options and futures cleared by OCC and cash instruments in margin collateral.

On May 23, 2018, the Commission issued a Notice of No Objection to OCC's advance notice filing concerning a number of enhancements to OCC's margin methodology.¹⁰ The proposed changes were designed to enable OCC to: (1) Obtain daily price data for equity products for use in the daily estimation of econometric model parameters; (2) enhance OCC's econometric model for updating statistical parameters for all risk factors that reflect the most recent data obtained; (3) improve the sensitivity and stability of correlation estimates across risk factors by using de-volatilized returns; and (4) improve OCC's methodology related to the treatment of defaulting securities. On May 24, 2018, the Commission approved a proposed rule changed by OCC concerning these same enhancements (collectively with the advance notice filing, the "Initial Filings").¹¹ The purpose of this proposed rule change is to make clarifying and conforming changes to OCC's Margin Policy and Margins Methodology related to the implementation of the methodology enhancements in the Initial Filings. The proposed changes are described in detail below.

Proposed Changes

OCC proposes to revise its Margin Policy to reflect the use of daily price data in its margin models. Under the Initial Filings, the statistical parameters for OCC's econometric model would be updated on a daily basis using the new daily price data obtained by OCC.¹² As ⁸ The expected shortfall component is established as the estimated average of potential losses higher than the 99% value at risk threshold. The term "value at risk" or "VaR" refers to a statistical technique that, generally speaking, is used in risk management to measure the potential risk of loss for a given set of assets over a particular time horizon.

⁹ A detailed description of the STANS methodology is available at <http://optionsclearing.com/risk-management/margins/>.

¹⁰ See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 83305 (May 23, 2018), 83 FR 24536 (May 29, 2018) (SR-OCC-2017-811).

¹¹ See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 83326 (May 24, 2018), 83 FR 25081 (May 31, 2018) (SR-OCC-2017-022).

¹² See supra notes 10 and 11.

a result, OCC would no longer need to rely on scale factors to approximate day-to-day market volatility for equity-based products.¹³ Instead, statistical parameters would be calibrated on a daily basis, allowing OCC to calculate more accurate margin requirements that are representative of the most recent market data. OCC therefore proposes to make conforming changes to its Margin Policy to remove references to scale factors and to provide that market data would be recalibrated on an at least weekly-basis with a daily recalibration performed where possible (as opposed to recalibrating on a monthly-basis).

OCC also proposes to revise its Margins Methodology to clarify certain constraints on first and second day conditional variance estimates that would be imposed as part of the implementation of the methodology enhancements in the Initial Filings. As part of the Initial Filings, OCC introduced a second-day forecast for volatility into the model to estimate the two-day scenario distributions for risk factors.¹⁴ OCC proposes to clarify in its Margins Methodology that OCC would impose an upper-bound limitation on the second-day conditional variance estimate in order to ensure that the expected shortfall is finite. Specifically, in the implementation of the new methodology, OCC would floor the day ahead and second day conditional variance for STANS at 100% every day.

Finally, OCC proposes to revise its Margins Methodology to clarify that the proposed changes from the Initial Filings and the proposed changes described herein would not be implemented until October 1, 2018.

(2) Statutory Basis

Section 17A(b)(3)(F) of the Act, requires, among other things, that the rules of a clearing agency be designed,

¹³ Prior to the implementation of daily updates, OCC would continue to employ an approach where one or many identified market proxies (or "scale-factors") are used to incorporate day-to-day market volatility across all associated asset classes throughout. In 2017, the Commission approved a proposed rule change and issued a Notice of No Objection to an advance notice filing by OCC which, among other things: (1) Expanded the number of scale factors used for equity-based products to more accurately measure the relationship between current and long-run market volatility with proxies that correlate more closely to certain products carried within the equity asset class, and (2) applied relevant scale factors to the greater of (i) the estimated variance of 1-day return scenarios or (ii) the historical variance of the daily return scenarios of a particular instrument, as a floor to mitigate procyclicality. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 80147 (March 3, 2017), 82 FR 13163 (March 9, 2017) (SR-OCC-2017-001) and Securities Exchange Act Release No. 80143 (March 2, 2017), 82 FR 13036 (March 8, 2017) (SR-OCC-2017-801).

in general, to protect investors and the public interest.¹⁵ The proposed rule change would make a number of clarifying and conforming changes to OCC's Margin Policy and Margins Methodology related to enhancements to OCC's margin methodology that were recently approved by the Commission.¹⁶ Specifically, the proposed rule change is designed to improve OCC's policy and methodology documentation by clarifying certain implementation details of the methodology changes in the Initial Filings, ensuring that OCC's Margin Policy is properly aligned with the methodology enhancements upon their implementation, and clarifying the implementation date for these changes. OCC believes that the proposed rule change is therefore designed, in general, to protect investors and the public interest in accordance with Section 17A(b)(3)(F) of the Act.¹⁷

(B) Clearing Agency's Statement on Burden on Competition

Section 17A(b)(3)(I) of the Act¹⁸ requires that the rules of a clearing agency not impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. OCC does not believe that the proposed rule change would have any impact or impose a burden on competition. The proposed rule change is intended to make clarifying and conforming changes to OCC's Margin Policy and Margins Methodology in connection with the implementation of a proposed rule change that was previously approved by the Commission. Accordingly, OCC does not believe that the proposed rule change would have any impact or impose a burden on competition.

(C) Clearing Agency's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants or Others

Written comments on the proposed rule change were not and are not intended to be solicited with respect to the proposed rule change and none have been received.

III. Date of Effectiveness of the Proposed Rule Change and Timing for Commission Action

The foregoing rule change has become effective pursuant to Section 19(b)(3)(A) of the Act¹⁹ and Rule 19b-4(f)(1)²⁰ thereunder because it constitutes a stated policy, practice, or interpretation with respect to the meaning, administration, or enforcement of an existing rule.

At any time within 60 days of the filing of the proposed rule change, the Commission summarily may temporarily suspend such rule change if it appears to the Commission that such action is necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors, or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of the Act.²¹
