

Amex when responding to a price improvement auction.⁶³ With respect to Specialists and Market Makers, these market participants are assessed PFOF when contra to an electronically-delivered Customer order, while other market participants are not assessed such fees.⁶⁴ The Exchange does not believe the pricing changes will provide a competitive advantage for Specialists and Market Makers as compared to other Non-Customer market participants (i.e., Professionals, Broker-Dealers and Firms), with respect to intra-market competition. Specialists and Markets would continue to be assessed lower rates as compared to these market participants. Further, with respect to inter-market competition, the Exchange believes that the proposed change will enhance the competitiveness of the Exchange relative to other exchanges that offer their own electronic crossing mechanism. Other market participants will pay the same Options Transaction Charges as they pay today for all other Multiply Listed Options transactions that are not transacted within the PIXL auction.

The Exchange's proposal to increase the FLEX Transaction Fees for Multiply Listed Options for Professionals, Specialists, Market Makers, Broker-Dealers and Firms from $0.15 to $0.25 per contract does not create an undue burden on competition because the Exchange is assessing the same fees for FLEX transactions in Multiply Listed Options on all market participants, except Customers. Customers traditionally are not assessed transaction fees because Customer orders bring valuable liquidity to the market.

The Exchange operates in a highly competitive market, comprised of twelve exchanges, in which market participants can easily and readily direct order flow to competing venues if they deem fee levels at a particular venue to be excessive or rebates to be inadequate. Accordingly, the fees that are assessed and the rebates paid by the Exchange, as described in the proposal, are influenced by these robust market forces and therefore must remain competitive with fees charged and rebates paid by other venues and therefore must continue to be reasonable and equitably allocated to those members that opt to direct orders to the Exchange rather than competing venues.
