6 CFR Part 126

[Docket No. DHS–2022–0039]

RIN 1601–AB09

Procedures of the Transportation Security Oversight Board Review Panel Concerning Federal Aviation Administration Airman Certificates

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, DHS.

ACTION: Interim final rule, request for comments.

SUMMARY: The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is amending its regulations to codify certain review procedures of the Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) Review Panel. This interim final rule explains the process by which a party appeals the decision of an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) relating to the determination by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) that an individual holding a Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) certificate poses or is suspected of posing a security threat. Publishing and codifying the procedures will enhance the TSOB review process by providing clarity to members of the Review Panel and litigants concerning filing deadlines, the form of motions and briefs, the administration of hearings, the standard of review, and the effect of TSOB Review Panel decisions. Providing clarity will reduce misconceptions about the intended process, encourage the uniform treatment of litigants, and promote consistent outcomes. Also, advance knowledge of the procedures will enable prospective parties to make informed decisions concerning whether to seek an appeal of an ALJ's decision. DHS invites comment on the interim final rule and will issue a final rule following consideration of the comments received.

DATES: Effective date: This rule is effective September 8, 2022.

Comment date: Comments must be received by September 8, 2022.

ADDRESSES: You may submit comments, identified by docket number DHS–2022–0039, through the Federal eRulemaking Portal at www.regulations.gov.

Instructions: In your submission, please include the agency name and docket number for this rulemaking. We will post all comments, without any change and including any personal information contained in the comment, to the public docket. All comments may be read at www.regulations.gov.

Comments submitted in a manner other than the one listed above, including emails or letters sent to DHS officials, will not be considered comments on the IFR, and may not be considered by DHS. Please note that DHS cannot accept any comments that are hand-delivered or couriered. In addition, DHS cannot accept comments contained on any form of digital media storage devices, such as CDs/DVDs and USB drives.

DHS is not accepting mailed comments. If you cannot submit your comment by using www.regulations.gov, please contact Randall Kaplan, Attorney, Department of Homeland Security, by telephone at 202 282–9822 for alternate instructions.

Docket: For access to the docket or to read background documents or comments, go to www.regulations.gov.

I. Background and Purpose

A. Statutory History

Section 102(a) of the Aviation and Transportation Security Act (ATSA), Public Law 107–71, as amended, (codified at 49 U.S.C. 115) established the Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) in the Department of Homeland Security. The Secretary of Homeland Security, or the Secretary's designee, serves as the Chairperson of the TSOB. 49 U.S.C. 115(b)(2). The other statutory members of the TSOB are the Secretaries of Transportation, Defense, and the Treasury, the Attorney General, the Director of National Intelligence, or their designees, and one individual appointed by the President to represent the National Security Council. 49 U.S.C. 115(b)(1).

Section 601(a) of the Vision 100—Century of Aviation Reauthorization Act (Vision 100 Act), (Pub. L. 108–176; 49 U.S.C. 46111(a)) requires the FAA Administrator to issue an order amending, modifying, suspending, or revoking all or part of an FAA certificate issued under title 49 of the U.S. Code when notified by the Administrator of the TSA that the certificate holder poses, or is suspected of posing, a risk of air piracy or terrorism or a threat to airline or passenger safety. Following the FAA's issuance of such an order, an adversely affected U.S. citizen may challenge the TSA's determination that they pose or are suspected of posing such a risk (called a Determination of Security Threat) at a hearing on the record before an ALJ. 49 U.S.C. 46111(b)–(c). Any party to the proceedings before the ALJ may appeal the ALJ's decision to a Review Panel appointed by the TSOB. 49 U.S.C. 46111(d). Any person who is substantially affected by the TSOB Review Panel's action may seek review by an appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals. 49 U.S.C. 46110(a) and 46111(e). The TSA Administrator may seek such review if it is determined that the Review Panel's action will have a significant adverse impact on carrying out 49 U.S.C. Subt. VII, Pt. A, which establishes Federal programs to ensure safety in aviation and air commerce.

When the TSOB receives an appeal from an ALJ's decision regarding a TSA Determination of Security Threat, it must establish a Review Panel to review the decision. 49 U.S.C. 46111(d). The members of the Review Panel may not be TSA employees, and they must hold an appropriate security clearance. 49 U.S.C. 46111(d)(1) and (2). A TSOB Review Panel may affirm, modify, or reverse the ALJ's decision. 49 U.S.C. 46111(d)(3).

B. TSA Vetting Process and Redress for Determinations of Security Threat

As a result of the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks, Congress recognized the need for an entirely new and comprehensive regulatory regime focused on securing the transportation system and enacted many laws requiring TSA to conduct security threat assessments (STAs) of individuals who perform security functions in or have access to the transportation system. TSA conducts STAs of more than 25 million individuals every day. The vetted populations include airport workers, airline employees, air cargo handlers, FAA certificate holders, individuals seeking airspace waivers, drivers hauling hazardous materials in commerce, merchant mariners and longshoremen working in ports and on vessels, trusted travelers, flight students, chemical facility employees, and others. In accordance with the governing statutory requirements and fundamental principles of due process, TSA developed these vetting programs to collect ample biographic information to verify the identity of the applicant, conduct informed evaluations of the vetting results, and provide robust redress to protect against incorrectly designating an individual as a threat to national or transportation security, or of terrorism.

Of the 25 million individuals TSA vets daily, over five million hold FAA certificates. TSA is required to ensure that individuals "are screened against all appropriate records in the consolidated and integrated terrorist watchlist maintained by the Federal Government before being certificated" by the FAA.¹ To conduct this vetting, TSA uses the biographic information the FAA collects from applicants and certificate holders and compares it against several intelligence and law enforcement databases. TSA's intelligence analysts review any derogatory information generated during the vetting to determine whether the individual poses or is suspected of posing a security threat. This evaluation requires expertise and rigor to analyze behaviors and connections that are indicative of potential security threats. Analysts in TSA's Office of Intelligence and Analysis evaluate the vetting information thoroughly for behaviors and connections that reflect security threats based on their longstanding experience with this information. If TSA believes the individual poses, or is suspected of posing, a security threat, TSA issues a Determination of Security Threat, notifies the FAA of the Determination of Security Threat, and asks the FAA to amend, modify, suspend, or revoke the individual's certificates. Once the FAA takes action, the individual, if a U.S. citizen, may appeal the Determination of Security Threat underlying FAA's action to an ALJ.

The ALJs who hear these appeals are experienced judges who are frequently called upon to review TSA's eligibility determinations for other transportation worker populations and who possess the appropriate security clearance to review classified or otherwise protected information and evidence. As part of their review, they have the power to receive information and evidence; hold and regulate the course of hearings; dispose of procedural motions; and examine witnesses. The ALJ conducts a de novo hearing, reviews the evidence and testimony presented (including the information on which TSA based its Determination of Security Threat), and issues a decision based on that review. Following the ALJ's decision, the parties may appeal to the TSOB Review Panel.

C. TSOB Review Panel Procedures

As a result of the first appeal to the TSOB Review Panel in 2010, the TSOB Chairperson issued procedures in May 2011 for use in all appeals. DHS provides these procedures directly to litigants if they file a notice of intent to appeal following the ALJ process. All of the 2011 procedures governing briefs and motions, the conduct of proceedings, the treatment of sensitive documents, and the standard of review are closely aligned with the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure (FRAP).² The 2011 procedures ensure that parties have adequate time to seek review, prepare briefs, respond to opposing party assertions, request extensions of time, and request hearings. Additionally, the 2011 procedures establish the standard of review, substantial evidence on the record, for the Review Panel to apply when reviewing evidence and reaching a decision.

From 2011 to November 30, 2021, the TSOB received only one additional appeal, which was resolved by decision of the TSOB Review Panel on September 23, 2021. The 2021 TSOB Review Panel applied a de novo standard of review.

Requests for review of an ALJ decision by the TSOB Review Panel are on the rise. As of the date of this publication, there are four Determinations of Security Threat regarding U.S. citizens pending review by an ALJ, and an additional three U.S. citizens have timely initiated the redress process in response to a Determination of Security Threat. Overall, TSA's caseload with respect to Determinations of Security Threat has increased by over 100% between Fiscal Year 2019 and Fiscal Year 2021, in significant part due to rising investigations of domestic terrorism-related cases in which affected certificate holders may seek reviews of Determinations of Security Threat by an ALJ and then the TSOB. Given this trend, publishing and codifying the procedures will help ensure optimal transparency in the process for affected individuals, clear understanding of the procedures, and consistency in results.

As discussed in greater detail in section D. Procedural Rules under the Administrative Procedure Act, DHS is issuing this interim final rule as a procedural rule, which are typically exempt from the notice-and-comment requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA). 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A). Nevertheless, DHS is asking for comment on this interim final rule from all affected stakeholders and will consider the comments and make changes as appropriate.

II. Discussion of the Rule

In the paragraphs below, organized by section number, we explain the origins and rationale for the standards in the interim final rule, and where it differs from the 2011 procedures.

² <https://www.uscourts.gov/rules-policies/current-rules-practice-procedure>.

§ 126.1 Purpose

Section 126.1 describes the general purpose of part 126, which is to establish procedures by which a TSOB Review Panel is appointed and reviews an appeal from an ALJ's decision regarding a TSA Determination of Security Threat.

§ 126.3 Definitions

Section 126.3 provides definitions of important terms that are used in the interim final rule. The 2011 procedures did not include a definition section, but based on the experience DHS has gained in prior TSOB review panel cases and other administrative review programs DHS and its components administer, establishing definitions of key terms aids all parties engaged in the review process. These definitions are taken from existing statutory, regulatory, or Executive Order language, or reflect common usage meanings.

'Classified information' has the same meaning the term has in Executive Order 13526, Classified National Security Information, or its successor Executive Order. The term 'communication technology' means telephone or videoconferencing platform. The term 'Sensitive Security Information' (SSI) is information described in 49 CFR 1520.5. The rule defines 'other protected information' as any other information that the government is authorized by statute, regulation, or Executive Order to withhold. The rule defines 'Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB)' as the board established pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 115. Finally, 'Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) Review Panel' is defined as the panel established pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 46111(d) to consider an appeal from a decision of an ALJ as the result of a hearing under 49 U.S.C. 46111(b).

§ 126.5 Appointment of TSOB Review Panel and TSOB Docket Clerk

Section 126.5(a) provides that TSOB members must designate individuals who meet specific criteria to serve in a pool of potential Panel members for a period of two years. The criteria for nominees are listed in paragraphs (a)(1) through (a)(5). The nominee must be a member of the Senior Executive Service (SES) or a Senior Level (SL) employee to ensure that he or she possesses the appropriate level of experience to evaluate the issues and record before the Panel. The nominee must hold the appropriate security clearance to ensure that he or she can effectively review an administrative record that contains classified material. Nominees may not be employees of TSA or FAA, which ensures an unbiased review of TSA's security threat determination. Although 49 U.S.C. 46111(d) excludes only TSA employees from membership on a TSOB Review Panel, the TSOB Chairperson has determined that FAA employees should also be excluded. Exclusion of both TSA and FAA employees from participation in the TSOB Review Panel pool avoids the possible appearance of impartiality or lack of independent review. To the extent practicable, the nominee will have a legal background and be engaged in the practice of law on behalf of the U.S. government. Although these qualifications were not included in the 2011 procedures, through experience in this and other administrative appeal programs, DHS has found that individuals with this background enhance a Review Panel's ability to efficiently and accurately assess the legal arguments the parties assert during the appeal, and to prepare cogent decisions. Finally, to the extent practicable, a nominee will be familiar with transportation security issues. This factor was not included in the 2011 procedures, but DHS has found that such a background enhances the efficiency and accuracy of the review process.

Paragraph (b) provides that TSOB members must designate officials for the TSOB Review Panel when each two-year period expires. Paragraph (c) states that the General Counsel of the Department of Homeland Security, or the General Counsel's designee, will appoint an individual from within the Office of the General Counsel to serve as the TSOB Docket Clerk. The TSOB Docket Clerk serves as the Review Panel's point of contact for the public and the parties to ALJ proceedings. Paragraph (d) states that when the TSOB Docket Clerk receives a properly and timely filed appeal from an ALJ's decision, the TSOB Chairperson will select at least three individuals from the Review Panel pool to serve on a Review Panel to review the ALJ's decision. The TSOB Chairperson has discretion to choose which individuals from the pool will serve on a TSOB Review Panel. In making selections for a TSOB Review Panel, the TSOB Chairperson will, to the extent practicable, select at least one person with a legal background to serve as a Panel Member. A three-member Review Panel allows for appropriate deliberation and the exercise of independent judgment, and is similar to the size of other Federal Government administrative review panels and the panels that hear cases in the U.S. Courts of Appeals.³

§ 126.7 Function of TSOB Review Panel

Section 126.7 requires a TSOB Review Panel to review an ALJ's decision and affirm, modify, or reverse that decision, or remand the matter to the ALJ for reconsideration.

§ 126.9 Scope and Standard of Review

Section 126.9(a) states that the standard of review a TSOB Review Panel uses in considering an ALJ's decision is whether the decision is supported by substantial evidence in the record. The term "standard of review" refers to the degree of deference a reviewing court gives to the court below. The 2011 procedures stated that the standard of review is whether the ALJ's decision reasonably supports the conclusion that the FAA certificate holder does or does not pose a security threat, which is equivalent to "substantial evidence in the record." Substantial evidence means "such relevant evidence that a reasonable mind might accept as adequate to support a conclusion."⁴ In contrast, the ALJ applies a de novo standard of review to TSA's Determinations of Security Threat for FAA certificate holders. A "de novo" standard of review applies the least amount of deference to the court below; the reviewing court examines the evidence as though it is being considered for the first time, allowing the reviewing court to substitute its own judgment about the application of the law to the facts.

Generally, the substantial evidence standard of review is used in civil cases relating to administrative decisions at the Federal level. TSA administers several vetting programs with robust redress processes that, like the 2011 TSOB Review Panel procedures, include multiple levels of review. One transportation-related example is the review process for the Transportation Worker Identification Credential (TWIC) and Hazardous Materials Endorsement (HME) programs found at 49 CFR 1515.5–1515.11. TWIC and HME applicants undergo an STA that includes criminal, immigration, terrorist, and other database checks. See 49 CFR part 1572. If TSA determines a TWIC or HME applicant poses a security threat, TSA issues a written preliminary determination of threat assessment that includes information on how to appeal the assessment to TSA. TSA reviews all documents the applicant provides in the appeal, essentially providing de novo review of the case, and issues a final determination based upon its review of all relevant information available to TSA. The applicant may then appeal the final determination to an ALJ, and the ALJ applies the substantial evidence standard of review. An unsuccessful applicant may then appeal the ALJ's decision to the TSA Final Decision Maker, who also applies the substantial evidence standard of review. These regulations, issued through notice-and-comment rulemaking along with the corresponding STA requirements, have been in use for over a decade.

³ See 28 U.S.C. 46(b) (providing for three-judge panels to hear and determine cases in the U.S. Courts of Appeals); 49 CFR 1108.6 (providing for a three-member panel of arbitrators for the Surface Transportation Board).

Cases that reach the TSOB Review Panel have undergone multiple levels of review within TSA and have been reviewed by an ALJ. TSA has access to all of the factual and intelligence information generated during the vetting of the FAA certificate holder, and the expertise to evaluate whether the information supports a security threat determination. Then, the ALJ applies a de novo standard of review to determine whether TSA correctly applied its standard on whether an individual poses or is suspected of posing a security threat. This de novo review includes the review of information and evidence; examining witnesses and weighing the veracity and probity of their testimony; and determining whether a preponderance of the evidence supports the security threat determination. Consequently, the TSOB Review Panel ought to apply the more deferential substantial evidence standard of review, not a de novo standard. This standard of review requires the Panel to determine whether a reasonable person might accept the evidence presented as adequate to support the ALJ's conclusion.

The 2011 and 2021 Review Panels relied on the 2011 procedures but applied different standards of review. Therefore, without having codified procedures, it is possible that future panels may also use different standards of review.

Paragraph (b) states that a TSOB Review Panel will not consider the constitutionality of any statute, regulation, Executive Order, or order issued by TSA. A TSOB Review Panel is an administrative body that lacks the authority or expertise to decide constitutional questions.⁵ Constitutional claims or questions must be addressed by an appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals reviewing the TSOB Review Panel's action. When making its decisions, the Review Panel considers the entire record of the proceedings before the ALJ. The Review Panel may also consider additional materials that are properly added to the record through a duly filed motion, as permitted in section 126.19(b).

§ 126.11 Counsel

Section 126.11(a) gives all parties to proceedings before a TSOB Review Panel the right to be represented by counsel. Because Review Panel proceedings are civil proceedings that cannot result in a party's incarceration, the Federal Government is not required to provide legal counsel to represent a party who is unable to pay for an attorney. Thus, parties appearing before a TSOB Review Panel must obtain counsel at their own expense. TSA will designate legal counsel from among the attorneys in the DHS Office of the General Counsel who cover TSA's programs and issues on a daily basis, to represent TSA in Review Panel proceedings. This section also states that counsel for TSA must hold a security clearance commensurate with the information in the record on appeal. This requirement was not explicitly listed in the 2011 procedures, but has always been required for TSOB and similar administrative appeal procedures.

Section 126.11(b) provides that the General Counsel of DHS, or the General Counsel's designee, will appoint legal counsel who, in the General Counsel's discretion, has the requisite knowledge and experience to effectively assist a TSOB Review Panel reach a sound decision. The Review Panel's counsel facilitates communication between the Docket Clerk and the Review Panel, and assists with legal research, drafting documents, and similar tasks consistent with typical legal support. Appointed counsel must hold a security clearance that enables access to all materials in the record under review.

§ 126.13 Notice of Appeal and Service

Section 126.13 instructs parties on how to request TSOB review of an ALJ's decision and how to serve notice on all other parties. Any party to proceedings before the ALJ may file a notice of appeal with the TSOB via certified mail of administrative agencies."); Mont. Chapter of Ass'n of Civilian Technicians, Inc. v. Young, 514 F.2d 1165, 1167 (9th Cir. 1975) ("[F]ederal administrative agencies have neither the power nor the competence to pass on the constitutionality of statutes.").

or email. DHS strongly encourages parties to file all documents and consent to service via email to the TSOB Docket Clerk. Allowing parties to file a notice via email will expedite the receipt of documents and the review process.

Section 126.13(a) provides that a notice of appeal must be filed within 60 calendar days of the date of issuance of the ALJ's decision. This time limit is drawn from Rule 4 of the FRAP, which generally allows parties to a civil action in U.S. District Court 60 days to file a notice of appeal with an appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals in a case in which the United States or a Federal agency is a party.

Section 126.13(b) provides the addresses for the TSOB Docket Clerk and instructions for filing any document with a TSOB Review Panel.

Section 126.13(c) specifies the date on which a document is deemed filed. The date of filing is the date that the document is received by the TSOB Docket Clerk.

Section 126.13(d) provides that a TSOB Review Panel must reject and summarily dismiss a notice of appeal that is filed after the expiration of the 60-day deadline for appealing an ALJ's decision. The Review Panel, in its discretion, may accept the untimely notice upon a written showing of good cause for failing to meet the deadline.

Section 126.13(e) provides that if a party files a notice of appeal but fails to perfect the appeal by timely filing a supporting brief, a TSOB Review Panel may dismiss the appeal.

Section 126.13(f) explains that if an appeal is dismissed in accordance with paragraphs (d) or (e), the ALJ's written decision becomes final. This provision did not appear in the 2011 procedures, but DHS is adding this to ensure all parties understand the practical effect of a dismissal.

§ 126.15 Entry of Appearance

Section 126.15 requires parties and counsel to enter appearances in writing before a TSOB Review Panel within 15 calendar days of being served with a notice of appeal. This requirement was not part of the 2011 procedures, but DHS is adding it to ensure efficiency and timeliness in the review process based on prior experience in TSOB. Also, the requirement to file an entry of appearance is consistent with Rule 12 of the FRAP.

§ 126.17 Procedures for Classified Information, Sensitive Security Information (SSI), and Other Protected Information

Section 126.17 provides the procedures for handling classified

⁵ See Thunder Basin Coal Co. v. Reich, 510 U.S. 200, 215 (1994) ("[W]e agree that adjudication of the constitutionality of congressional enactments has generally been thought beyond the jurisdiction information, SSI, and other protected information during proceedings before a TSOB Review Panel. This section did not appear in the 2011 procedures, but the processes outlined here reflect the current practice of the review panels. The procedures are consistent with the statutory provisions regarding the use of classified evidence in hearings pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 46111(g), and the protection of SSI set forth in 49 CFR 1520.9. This section sets deadlines for TSA with respect to protected information to aid efficiency and transparency in the process. Section 126.17(a) provides that TSA must file a notice of protected information within 30 calendar days of filing or being served with a notice of appeal. The notice of protected information must indicate whether the record of proceedings before the ALJ contains classified information or SSI. This notice will alert a TSOB Review Panel to take appropriate steps to protect the record from disclosure to non-government parties or the public. The TSOB Review Panel will review materials in the record containing classified information or SSI in camera or during an ex parte proceeding with TSA.

Section 126.17(b) provides that a TSOB Review Panel may not disclose classified information or SSI, except to government parties and government counsel who have the appropriate security clearance and a need to know the information to be disclosed.

§ 126.19 Filing and Supplementing the Record

Section 126.19(a) requires TSA to file a complete record of administrative proceedings, including a certified and un-redacted transcript of all proceedings before the ALJ and all material filed with the ALJ, with the TSOB Review Panel within 30 calendar days after filing or being served with a notice of appeal. The TSOB Review Panel needs the full record in order to conduct a comprehensive review of the ALJ's decision. To ensure that non-government parties have access to a redacted copy of the transcript of proceedings before the ALJ, this subsection permits non-government parties to file a motion requesting a redacted copy of any part of the full administrative record that they do not possess.

Section 126.19(b) permits a party to supplement the record presented to the TSOB Review Panel when (i) anything relevant to an issue on appeal occurs or is created after the ALJ issues a decision, or (ii) the party can show good cause for failing to submit material for the record at an earlier stage of the administrative proceedings.

§ 126.21 Motions

Section 126.21(a) provides the procedures for filing a motion with a TSOB Review Panel. The requirements are the same as those for filing a brief, which are modeled on Rule 28 of the FRAP.

Section 126.21(b) explains the duty to confer with all other parties before filing any motion. If a party seeks relief from a TSOB Review Panel (for example, extension of a deadline), that party must file a motion requesting the relief. Before filing the motion, the party seeking relief must first confer, or make reasonable, good-faith efforts to confer, with all other parties in an effort to obtain their consent to the relief requested. The 2011 procedures do not include this section, but DHS is adding it to improve efficiency and communications. It is consistent with Rules 26(c)(1) and 37(a)(1) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. After conferring or attempting to confer, the party seeking relief may file the motion with the TSOB Review Panel. The moving party shall state in the motion, or in a certificate attached to the motion, the specific efforts made to confer. The moving party shall also state in the motion the other parties' positions with regard to the relief requested. If no party opposes the relief requested in a motion, the moving party shall include "Unopposed" in the motion's title.

These provisions are modeled on Local Rules of Practice adopted by many U.S. District Courts, including, for example, the Rules of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, Local Rule 7(m) (September 2015), Local Rules for the United States District Court, Eastern District of Virginia, Local Civil Rule 7 and Local Criminal Rule 47 (December 1, 2020). They are designed to promote cooperation between the parties and help resolve issues quickly and efficiently.

Section 126.21(c) provides for motion hearings using communication technology. As defined in this rule, communication technology means telephone or a videoconferencing platform. Using videoconferencing to conduct motion hearings allows a TSOB Review Panel to efficiently resolve motions without burdening the parties. The Review Panel will consider the availability of adequate security protocols in making determinations concerning motions hearings.

Section 126.21(d) gives a TSOB Review Panel discretion to grant or deny a motion at any time after it is filed. This provision allows a Review Panel to quickly and efficiently resolve routine motions (for example, motions for an extension of a deadline) without waiting for all parties to file a response.

Section 126.21(e) permits a TSOB Review Panel to establish additional procedural requirements regarding motion practice in response to the exigencies of a particular appeal. Additional procedural requirements apply on a case-by-case basis. For example, if a motion raises an unusually complex issue, a Review Panel may find it appropriate to allow the non-moving parties to file a response that is longer than the default 35-page limit. Section 126.21(e) gives the Review Panel the discretion to modify the page limit. This discretion is crucial to establishing an efficient review process. Section 126.21(e) provides two other examples of additional procedural requirements that a Review Panel may wish to adopt in a particular case: time periods for filing responses and replies to motions and a deadline for concluding all motion practice. These examples are illustrative and not intended as an exhaustive list of permissible additional procedural requirements for motion practice. Section 126.21(e) only concerns basic procedural requirements regarding motion practice, and it does not afford a TSOB Review Panel discretion to adopt procedural requirements unrelated to motion practice or to fundamentally change the review process prescribed in this part. A TSOB Review Panel will communicate specific additional procedural requirements regarding motion practice to the parties during proceedings or by serving them with orders.

§ 126.23 Briefs

Section 126.23(a) and (b) enumerate the procedures and deadlines for filing briefs with a TSOB Review Panel. These subsections are modeled after Rule 28 of the FRAP. A party appealing the ALJ's decision (an appellant) must perfect the appeal by filing a brief within 60 calendar days after the date on which the TSA files the administrative record. An appellant's brief must contain a specific list of objections to the ALJ's decision. This requirement is modeled after Rule 28(a)(8) of the FRAP, which requires appellants to clearly list and describe their contentions. A party not appealing the ALJ's decision (an appellee) may file a brief in response to an appellant brief within 30 calendar days after being served with the appellant brief.

Section 126.23(c) provides the specific form for submitting briefs to a TSOB Review Panel. The specifications are modeled on Rule 28 of the FRAP, and they are intended to facilitate an efficient process with the least amount of burden to the parties and the Review Panel.

§ 126.25 Oral Argument

Section 126.25 provides for oral argument. A TSOB Review Panel will decide whether to grant oral argument upon receipt of a request for an oral argument contained in a brief pursuant to section 126.23(c)(5). The TSOB Review Panel has discretion to grant or deny a request for oral argument. The Review Panel may also order oral argument on its own initiative if it determines that oral argument is necessary to clarify the parties' arguments or that oral argument will improve the Panel's understanding of legal or factual issues material to the appeal.

If oral argument is held, the TSOB Review Panel has discretion to choose the method and location. Oral argument will typically be heard in Washington, DC, or via teleconference or videoconference. The TSOB Review Panel will consider expense and inconvenience to the parties, the need for information security, the quality and reliability of available communication technology, and concern for the efficient administration of proceedings when choosing the method and location of oral argument.

Section 126.25(c) provides that the TSOB Review Panel may also establish any necessary procedural rules to ensure the efficient administration of oral argument. This allows the Review Panel to adjust to the exigencies of a particular appeal. For example, the Review Panel may want to grant the parties a longer amount of time for argument if an appeal is complex and involves a large amount of evidence.

Section 126.25(d) provides that classified information and SSI may not be disclosed during oral argument, and that a Review Panel may hold ex parte proceedings to allow TSA to present such information.

§ 126.27 Deliberations and Action

Section 126.27 provides the procedures by which a TSOB Review Panel resolves an appeal. A Review Panel will consider the transcript of the ALJ's hearing, all material that the ALJ considered as part of the record for decision, any properly filed supplemental material, the parties' briefing, and, if applicable, oral argument. The Review Panel's deliberations are closed to the public, and any materials created by Panel members, the TSOB Docket Clerk, and the Panel's appointed counsel for use in deliberations are not part of the final administrative record and may not be disclosed to the public.

A TSOB Review Panel may affirm, reverse, or modify the ALJ's decision. It may also remand the matter to the ALJ with instructions to address particular issues or consider additional testimony or evidence. A TSOB Review Panel requires a simple majority to decide an action. A Review Panel is required to prepare a written explanation of its action and serve it on the parties. The Review Panel will endeavor to act to resolve an appeal and serve a written explanation within 60 calendar days after the last of the following events: (1) receipt of a timely filed appellant brief; (2) receipt of a timely filed appellee brief; or (3) oral argument. If a Panel member disagrees with the Panel's action or reasoning, that member may write a dissenting report to be served with the written explanation. A Review Panel must redact all classified information and SSI from the written explanation before serving it on non-government parties. The written explanation will not be made available to the public through publication.

§ 126.29 Effect of TSOB Review Panel Action

Section 126.29 explains the effect of a TSOB Review Panel action. After the TSOB Review Panel acts to resolve an appeal and serves a written explanation of its action, any person substantially affected by the action, or the TSA Administrator if he decides that the Panel's action will have a significant adverse impact on Federal programs to ensure safety in aviation and air commerce, may obtain judicial review of the action in an appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals. If judicial review is not obtained, the action of the TSOB Review Panel is final and binding on the parties for the purpose of resolving the particular matter under review.

§ 126.31 Administration of Proceedings

Section 126.31(a) describes the authority of a TSOB Review Panel to adopt additional procedures consistent with those established in this part. This ensures that a Review Panel has the flexibility to adjust to the exigencies of a particular appeal. Additional procedures apply on a case-by-case basis, and a Review Panel will communicate specific additional procedures to the parties during proceedings or by serving them with orders. For example, if a party or a party's counsel suffers from poor health that renders participation in proceedings difficult, a Review Panel may find it appropriate to adopt additional procedures to accommodate such needs. Section 126.31(a) gives the Review Panel the discretion to make the necessary accommodations. This discretion is crucial to establishing an efficient review process. Other examples of exigencies that may necessitate the adoption of additional procedures include unexpected changes to the TSOB office facilities and technical issues that make communication between the parties and a Review Panel difficult. These examples are illustrative and not intended as an exhaustive list of permissible additional procedures. The discretion afforded by Section 126.31(a) is similar to that afforded by Section 126.21(e) above in that it also does not empower a TSOB Review Panel to fundamentally change the review process prescribed in this part.

Section 126.31(b) provides that proceedings before a TSOB Review Panel are rendered moot and closed if TSA withdraws its Determination of Security Threat. If TSA withdraws its Determination, TSA will notify the TSOB Review Panel of the withdrawal within five calendar days.

Section 126.31(c) provides that TSOB Review Panel proceedings are generally closed to the public. DHS is adding this provision to protect sensitive panel deliberations and discussions, and other kinds of sensitive or protected information from disclosure, including information regarding the conduct of individuals impacted by a Determination of Security Threat and witnesses to that conduct that may adversely impact these respective individuals' privacy interests. The Review Panel may, at its discretion, decide to open its proceedings to the public. No classified information, SSI or other protected information will be released during an open hearing.

D. Procedural Rules Under the Administrative Procedure Act

The Administrative Procedure Act (APA) generally requires agencies to publish a notice of proposed rulemaking in the Federal Register and provide interested persons the opportunity to submit comments. 5 U.S.C. 553(b) and (c). However, the APA provides an exception to this prior notice and comment requirement for "rules of agency organization, procedure, or practice." 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(A). This exemption has generally covered matters such as agency rules of practice governing the conduct of its proceedings and rules delegating authority or duties within an agency.⁶ The primary purpose for the procedural rule exemption is to “preserve agency flexibility when dealing with limited situations where substantive rights are not at stake.”⁷ The distinction between ‘procedural’ and ‘substantive’ rules is sometimes hard to apply because “even unambiguously procedural measures affect parties to some degree.”⁸ A mundane rule establishing office hours for an agency affects the public’s ability to make use of agency programs.⁹ The core distinction between a procedural and substantive rule is whether “the agency action jeopardizes the rights and interests of parties.”¹⁰ In a 2000 case involving a U.S. Department of Agriculture rule that eliminated expedited face-to-face meetings to approve commercial food labels, the Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit held that the rule was clearly procedural even though the elimination might have a “substantial impact” on food processors.¹¹ The D.C. Circuit stressed that “the critical feature of a procedural rule is that it covers agency actions that do not themselves alter the rights of parties, although it may alter the manner in which the parties present themselves to the agency.”¹²

This interim final rule is procedural within the meaning of the APA because it does not alter the rights of or substantive standards applied to an individual appearing before the TSOB Review Panel, such as whether the individual poses or is suspected of posing a threat. Rather, the rule establishes the procedures a TSOB Review Panel uses to efficiently review the decision reached by the ALJ on that issue. If this rule established the standards TSA uses to determine whether an individual poses or is suspected of posing a threat, then the substantive rights of the individual would be implicated. This rule establishes only the process by which an individual may seek review of the ALJ’s decision; it does not alter the individual’s ability to appeal the ALJ decision, or the standards TSA uses to determine if an individual is a security threat.

The Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS) issued a recommendation on how Federal agencies should approach the procedural rule exemption.¹³ The Recommendation notes the value of notice and public comment in the development of sound policy, but also states there are distinct public costs associated with that process, including the time it takes to go through rulemaking and the delay in implementing the standards. The Recommendation concludes that “the procedural and practice rule exemption can, in appropriate circumstances, serve a legitimate governmental purpose, and that Congress intended it to be available in such cases. Where such rules are truly procedural, rather than substantive in a procedural mask, the statutory exemption should be available.” The Recommendation also suggests that agencies voluntarily seek comment, if time permits, to further the development of good policy. For this reason, DHS is asking for comment on this interim final rule from all affected stakeholders. Although the rule will become effective sixty days after publication, DHS will consider all comments received and make appropriate changes to these standards in light of the comments received.

III. Regulatory Analyses

A. Executive Order 12866 and Executive Order 13563

Executive Orders 13563 and 12866 direct agencies to assess the costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health and safety effects, distributive impacts, and equity). Executive Order 13563 emphasizes the importance of quantifying both costs and benefits, of reducing costs, of harmonizing rules, and of promoting flexibility. This rule has not been designated a “significant regulatory action” under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866. Accordingly, the rule has not been reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

To evaluate properly the benefits and costs of regulations, it is important to define the baseline. DHS evaluates the impacts of this rule against both a no action and pre-statutory baseline. According to OMB Circular A–4, the no action baseline is what the world would be like if the rule is not adopted.¹⁴ The pre-statutory baseline is an assessment against what the world would be like if the relevant statute(s) had not been adopted.

Relative to the pre-statutory baseline, this rule increases costs. The statute mandates that an appeal from a decision of an ALJ is made to the TSOB Review Panel. The law provides the benefits of appeal, but it also requires government time to manage and execute the panel’s responsibilities, time of the parties to the appeal, and time and potential associated legal fees for the appellant. The government also incurred costs in 2011 developing the procedures for use by the TSOB Review Panel. As of the date of this publication, the panel has reviewed two requests for appeal. The 2011 and 2021 Review Panels relied on the 2011 procedures, but applied different standards of review.

Relative to the no action baseline, this rule has no costs. Without this rule, the TSOB Review Panel still has the authority and duty to review appeals. As discussed above, the TSOB Chairperson issued procedures in May 2011 intended for use in all appeals. Significant attorney time and resources were spent developing the procedures used in those cases. In the absence of a codified set of procedural rules, this developmental process might need to be repeated each time an appeal is filed with the TSOB. While DHS believes this rule does not impose any new costs (given that TSOB Review Panels would continue to issue decisions even if this rule was not promulgated), publication of this rule does provide several benefits which are discussed qualitatively below.

Codifying TSOB Review Panel procedures before the conclusion of presently pending and future ALJ proceedings serves the public’s interest in government transparency, consistency in administrative review processes, and certainty of expectations regarding government operation. In the absence of codified procedures, the public does not have notice of the details regarding how a TSOB Review Panel is selected and operates, and U.S. citizens who may be adversely affected by FAA certificate action do not have a complete picture of the administrative process by which they may challenge TSA’s Determination of Security Threat. Codified procedures allow the public to be informed about the operation of the Federal Government. Codification also provides certainty to U.S. citizens who may be adversely affected by FAA certificate action. This will allow them to make informed decisions about whether to challenge TSA's Determination, instill confidence that they will have a full and fair opportunity to be heard, and allow them to plan for the entire administrative review process. Codified procedures provide the public with confidence that all appeals will be reviewed following a consistent set of procedures and standards.

B. Regulatory Flexibility Act Assessment

The Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601–612, as amended by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (Pub. L. 104–121, title II, 110 Stat. 847, 857–74) requires Federal agencies to consider the potential impact of regulations on small businesses, small governmental jurisdictions, and small organizations during the development of their rules. However, when a rule is exempt from APA notice and comment requirements the RFA does not require an agency to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis. Because this rule does not trigger APA notice and comment requirements, DHS is exempt from preparing a regulatory flexibility analysis for this rule. DHS does note, however, that this rule regulates individuals, and individuals are not small entities as contemplated by the RFA.

C. Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995

This rule will not result in the expenditure by State, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year, and it will not significantly or uniquely affect small governments. Therefore, no actions were deemed necessary under the provisions of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995.

D. Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996

This rule is not a major rule as defined by the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996. 5 U.S.C. 804(2). This rule will not result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; a major increase in costs or prices; or significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based companies to compete with foreign based companies in domestic and export markets.

E. Executive Order 13132

This rule will not have substantial direct effects on the States, on the relationship between the National Government and the States, or on the distribution of power and responsibilities among the various levels of government. Therefore, in accordance with section 6 of Executive Order 13132, it is determined that this rule does not have sufficient federalism implications to warrant the preparation of a federalism summary impact statement.

F. Executive Order 12988 Civil Justice Reform

This rule meets the applicable standards set forth in sections 3(a) and 3(b)(2) of Executive Order 12988.

G. Paperwork Reduction Act Assessment

This interim final rule does not call for a collection of information under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995, 44 U.S.C. 3501, et seq. This rule falls under the category of an administrative action or investigation involving an agency against specific individuals or entities and is therefore excluded from Paperwork Reduction Act requirements. 44 U.S.C. 3518(c)(1)(B) and 5 CFR 1320.4(a).

126.21 Motions.

126.23 Briefs.

126.25 Oral argument.

126.27 Deliberations and action.

126.29 Effect of TSOB Review Panel action.

126.31 Administration of proceedings.

Authority: 6 U.S.C. 112, 49 U.S.C. 115, 46111; Department of Homeland Security Delegation No. 7071.1.

§ 126.1 Purpose.

This part establishes the procedures by which a Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) Review Panel reviews and acts to resolve an appeal from an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ) decision regarding a Determination of Security Threat made by the Administrator of the Transportation Security Administration (TSA).

§ 126.3 Definitions.

Classified information has the meaning given to that term in Executive Order 13526 or any successor Executive Order.

Communication technology means telephone or a videoconferencing platform.

Other protected information means other information that the government is authorized by statute, regulation, or Executive Order to withhold.

Sensitive Security Information (SSI) means information described in 49 CFR 1520.5.

Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) means the board established pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 115.

Transportation Security Oversight Board (TSOB) Review Panel means the panel established pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 46111(d) to consider an appeal from a decision of an administrative law judge as the result of a hearing under 49 U.S.C. 46111(b).

§ 126.5 Appointment of TSOB Review Panel and TSOB Docket Clerk.

(a) Upon request by the Chairman of the TSOB, TSOB members will designate at least one official who meets the criteria in paragraphs (a)(1) through (5) of this section to participate in a TSOB Review Panel pool for a period of two years. The Review Panel nominees must—

(1) Be a member of the Senior Executive Service (SES) or a Senior Level (SL) employee;

(2) Hold a security clearance commensurate with the record under review;

(3) Not be employed by TSA or FAA;

(4) To the extent practicable, have a legal background and be engaged in the practice of law on behalf of the United States Government; and

(5) To the extent practicable, be familiar with transportation security issues.

(b) Upon the expiration of each two-year period, TSOB members will again designate officials to participate in the TSOB Review Panel pool.

(c) The General Counsel of the Department of Homeland Security, or the General Counsel's designee, will appoint an individual from within the Office of the General Counsel to serve as the TSOB Docket Clerk. The TSOB Docket Clerk will serve as the TSOB Review Panel's point of contact for both the public and the parties to ALJ proceedings.

(d) When the TSOB Docket Clerk receives a properly and timely filed appeal from an ALJ's decision, the TSOB Chairperson selects at least three individuals from the TSOB Review Panel pool to serve on a Review Panel to review the ALJ's decision. The TSOB Chairperson has discretion to choose which individuals from the pool will serve on a TSOB Review Panel. In making selections for a TSOB Review Panel, the TSOB Chairperson will consider selecting at least one person with the qualifications set out in paragraph (a)(4) of this section to serve as a Panel Member, and will consider, based upon the composition of the pool as well as the issues raised in the appeal, appointing more than one person with the qualifications set out in paragraph (a)(4) to the TSOB Review Panel.

§ 126.7 Function of TSOB Review Panel.

A TSOB Review Panel reviews an ALJ's decision regarding a Determination of Security Threat issued by the TSA Administrator and may affirm, modify, or reverse the ALJ's decision, or remand the matter to the ALJ with instructions to address particular issues or consider additional testimony or evidence.

§ 126.9 Scope of review and standard of review.

(a) A TSOB Review Panel reviews an ALJ's decision to address whether the decision is supported by substantial evidence in the record before the TSOB Review Panel.

(b) A TSOB Review Panel will not consider the constitutionality of any statute, regulation, Executive Order, or order issued by the TSA.

§ 126.11 Counsel.

(a)(1) Parties to proceedings before a TSOB Review Panel may be represented by an attorney who is in good standing with the bar of any State, district, territory, or possession of the United States. Parties desiring representation must obtain such representation at their own expense.

(2) TSA will designate counsel to represent TSA before a TSOB Review Panel. The attorney must hold a security clearance that enables access to all materials related to the appeal.

(b) The General Counsel of the Department of Homeland Security, or the General Counsel's designee, appoints legal counsel to assist a TSOB Review Panel. Counsel appointed to assist the TSOB Review Panel facilitates communication between the TSOB Docket Clerk and the TSOB Review Panel, and assists with legal research and drafting for the Panel, as needed. Appointed counsel must hold a security clearance that enables access to all materials related to the appeal.

§ 126.13 Notice of appeal and service.

(a) Notice of appeal. A party seeking review of the ALJ's decision must file a notice of appeal with the TSOB Docket Clerk via email at TSOB_docket@hq.dhs.gov or via certified U.S. mail at ATTN: TSOB Docket Clerk, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Homeland Security, Washington, DC 20528-0485. A notice of appeal must be filed within 60 calendar days of the date of issuance of the ALJ's written decision.

(b) Service. To file any document with a TSOB Review Panel, a party must send the document to the TSOB Docket Clerk via email at TSOB_docket@hq.dhs.gov, or via certified U.S. mail at ATTN: TSOB Docket Clerk, Office of the General Counsel, Department of Homeland Security, Washington, DC 20528-0485. Parties are strongly encouraged to file all documents and consent to service via email. Any document filed with the TSOB Docket Clerk (except a notice of protected information, the administrative record, ex parte motions, and documents containing classified information, Sensitive Security Information (SSI), or other protected information that accompany a motion to supplement the record) must also be served on all other parties by certified U.S. mail or email.

(c) Filing date. For purposes of all deadlines in this part, the date of filing of a notice of appeal or any document filed with a TSOB Review Panel is the date on which the document is received by the TSOB Docket Clerk.

(d) Untimely appeals. A TSOB Review Panel must reject and summarily dismiss a notice of appeal that is filed more than 60 calendar days after the date of issuance of the ALJ's written decision. A TSOB Review Panel may, in its discretion, accept an untimely notice of appeal upon a showing of good cause for failure to meet the filing deadline.

(e) Failure to perfect the appeal. A TSOB Review Panel may dismiss an appeal, on its own initiative or upon motion of any party, when a party has filed a notice of appeal but failed to perfect the appeal by timely filing a brief in accordance with § 126.23.

Where an appeal is dismissed in accordance with paragraph (d) or (e) of this section the ALJ's written decision becomes final.

§ 126.15 Entry of appearance.

(a) All parties to a proceeding before a TSOB Review Panel must enter their appearances in writing with the TSOB Docket Clerk within 15 calendar days after filing or being served with a notice of appeal. A party's written notice of entry of appearance must identify counsel, if applicable.

(b) Counsel beginning representation of a party after that party has already entered an appearance must file a separate notice of entry of appearance within 15 calendar days of beginning representation.

§ 126.17 Procedures for classified information, sensitive security information (SSI), and other protected information.

(a) Notice of protected information. Within 30 calendar days of filing or being served with a notice of appeal, TSA must file a notice of protected information indicating whether the record of proceedings before the ALJ contains classified information, SSI, or other protected information. The notice of protected information must be filed with the TSOB Docket Clerk in accordance with § 126.13(b). If the TSA presented classified information, SSI, or other protected information to the ALJ at an ex parte proceeding or provided such information for in camera review during the ALJ proceedings, then the TSOB Review Panel will also consider that information at an ex parte proceeding or in camera.

(b) Access to protected information. A TSOB Review Panel may not disclose Classified Information or other protected information to any non-government party or counsel. A TSOB Review Panel may not disclose SSI to any non-government party or counsel unless the TSA has determined that the party had a preexisting need to know specific SSI as a covered person pursuant to 49 CFR 1520.7 and 1520.11.

§ 126.19 Filing and supplementing the record.

(a) Filing the record. The TSA must file a complete record of administrative proceedings, including a certified and unredacted transcript of all proceedings before the ALJ (including ex parte proceedings) and all material filed with the ALJ (including material containing classified information, SSI, or other protected information that was reviewed by the ALJ in camera), with the TSOB Docket Clerk within 30 calendar days after filing or being served with a notice of appeal. Upon motion filed by the TSA, or on its own initiative, the TSOB Review Panel may extend the time to file the record. The TSOB Docket Clerk notifies all parties of the date when the record is filed. Within 30 calendar days of the date the record is filed, non-government parties may file a motion requesting that the TSA provide them with a redacted copy of any part of the record (excluding ex parte proceedings and materials reviewed in camera) that they do not possess. The TSA redacts classified information or other protected information from any part of the record it provides to non-government parties, except to the extent that the TSA has determined that the party had a preexisting need to know specific SSI as a covered person pursuant to 49 CFR 1520.7 and 1520.11.

(b) Supplementing the record. (1) A party may file a motion to supplement the record when anything relevant to an issue on appeal occurs after the ALJ issued a decision, or the party can show good cause, as determined by the TSOB Review Panel, for failing to submit material for the record at an earlier stage of the administrative proceedings. When the TSA seeks to supplement the record with material that contains classified information, SSI or other protected information, it may file a motion to supplement the record ex parte.

(2) A TSOB Review Panel may grant a motion to supplement the record when it finds that the supplemental material is relevant to an issue on appeal and that a condition described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section applies.

§ 126.21 Motions.

(a) Form of motions. (1) A motion filed with a TSOB Review Panel must comply with the requirements set forth in § 126.23(c)(1) through (4).

(2) Motions must be filed with the TSOB Docket Clerk and served on all parties in accordance with § 126.13(b). The TSOB Docket Clerk provides all motions to the TSOB Review Panel.

(b) Duty to confer. Before filing any motion, a party must confer or make reasonable, good-faith efforts to confer with all other parties to resolve the issues that are the subject of the motion. The moving party must state in the motion, or in a certificate attached to the motion, the specific efforts made to comply with this duty to confer. The moving party must also state in the motion the other parties' positions with regard to the relief requested. If no party opposes the relief requested in a motion, the moving party includes "Unopposed" in the motion's title. TSA does not have a duty to confer before filing an ex parte motion, but must provide notice to all parties that it has made an ex parte filing.

(c) Motion hearings. Upon request of any party, or on its own initiative, a TSOB Review Panel may order the parties to appear for a hearing on any motion that was not filed ex parte. Motion hearings may be conducted via communication technology unless all parties agree to appear in person or the TSOB Review Panel in its discretion determines that an in person appearance is necessary for efficient administration of the hearing. The Review Panel considers expense and inconvenience to the parties, the importance of information security, and the quality and reliability of available communication technology when making these determinations.

(d) Disposition. A TSOB Review Panel may, consistent with the requirements of due process and after providing the opposing party with an opportunity to review and respond, grant or deny a motion at any time after it is filed.

(e) Additional procedural requirements for motion practice. A TSOB Review Panel has discretion to establish via order served on the parties, additional procedural requirements regarding motion practice in response to the exigencies of a particular appeal. Such requirements may include, for example, time periods for filing responses and replies, a deadline for concluding all motion practice, and page limitations different from the default 35-page limit established in § 126.23(c)(3). A TSOB Review Panel may not require disclosure of classified information, SSI, or other protected information.

§ 126.23 Briefs.

(a) Appellant brief. (1) A party appealing the ALJ's decision must perfect the appeal by filing an appellant brief with the TSOB Docket Clerk and serving that brief on all other parties in accordance with § 126.13(b) within 60 calendar days after the date on which TSA files the record in accordance with § 126.19(a), unless all parties consent to an extension of the filing deadline and provide notice of such agreement to the TSOB Docket Clerk or the TSOB Review Panel extends the filing deadline upon a motion by the appellant.

(2) The appellant brief must enumerate the appellant's objections to the ALJ's decision.

(b) Appellee brief. Within 30 calendar days after being served with an appellant brief, a party may file an appellee brief in response with the TSOB Docket Clerk. Any such brief must be served on all other parties in accordance with § 126.13(b) at the same time it is filed with the TSOB Docket Clerk. The parties may consent to an extension of the filing deadline and provide notice of such agreement to the TSOB Docket Clerk or the TSOB Review Panel may extend the deadline for filing an appellee brief upon a motion by the appellee.

(c) Brief requirements. A brief submitted to a TSOB Review Panel must adhere to the following specifications:

(1) The brief must be typewritten in Times New Roman, 12-point font, double-spaced, and, if submitted as a hard copy via certified U.S. mail, must be printed single-sided on 8 1/2-by-11 inch paper;

(2) The brief must set forth the name, address, email address, and telephone number of the party or attorney filing it;

(3) The brief must contain no more than 35 pages of text (excepting any tables, appendices, or cover sheets) unless prior permission to file excess pages has been granted by the TSOB Review Panel after consideration of a duly filed motion showing good cause as determined by the TSOB Review Panel;

(4) If submitted as a hard copy via certified U.S. mail, the brief must be bound in any manner that is secure, does not obscure the text, and permits easy reproduction; and

(5) If oral argument is desired, the brief should contain a request for oral argument that explains why oral argument will contribute substantially to the development of an issue on appeal.

§ 126.25 Oral argument.

(a) Upon receipt of a request from any party contained in a brief or in a motion, or on its own initiative, a TSOB Review Panel may order the parties to present oral argument. The Review Panel orders oral argument if it determines that oral argument will contribute substantially to the development of an issue on appeal.

(b) A TSOB Review Panel has discretion, within the requirements of all relevant statutory and regulatory provisions for information security, to choose the method and location of oral argument. The Review Panel will consider expense and inconvenience to the parties, the importance of information security, the quality and reliability of available communication technology, and concern for the efficient administration of proceedings when establishing the method and location of oral argument.

(c) A TSOB Review Panel has discretion to structure and establish procedural rules for oral argument via order served on the parties. Such rules may include time limits for argument and the order in which parties present argument.

(d) Classified information, SSI, or other protected information may not be disclosed during oral argument. A TSOB Review Panel may hold ex parte proceedings to allow for the presentation of classified information, SSI, or other protected information.

§ 126.27 Deliberations and action.

(a) Deliberations. TSOB Review Panel deliberations are closed proceedings. Any materials created by Review Panel members, the TSOB Docket Clerk, and the Review Panel's appointed counsel for use in deliberations are not part of the final administrative record.

(b) Action. A TSOB Review Panel may affirm, modify, or reverse the ALJ's decision. It may also remand the matter to the ALJ with instructions to address particular issues or consider additional testimony or evidence.

(1) A TSOB Review Panel requires a simple majority to decide an action.

(2) In case of a disagreement among TSOB Review Panel members, a dissenting report may be served with the written explanation of the Review Panel's action. A dissenting report must be prepared in accordance with the requirements for the Review Panel's written explanation.

(c) Written explanation. A TSOB Review Panel will explain its action in writing to the maximum extent permitted by prudent concern for the national security interests of the United States and applicable laws and regulations governing information disclosure. If necessary, the Review Panel may prepare its written explanation in both a protected format (which may contain classified information, SSI, and other protected information) and a non-protected format (which must not contain classified information, SSI, and other protected information). The Review Panel serves non-government parties with the non-protected written explanation and government parties with the protected written explanation. The Review Panel is prohibited from providing the protected written explanation to non-government parties. The protected written explanation is part of the final administrative record that TSA must submit to a U.S. Court of Appeals in the event that a party seeks judicial review of the Review Panel's action.

(d) Timing. A TSOB Review Panel endeavors to resolve an appeal and issue a written explanation of its action to the parties no later than 60 calendar days after the last of the following events:

(1) Receipt of a timely filed appellant brief;

(2) Receipt of a timely filed appellee brief; or

(3) Oral argument.

§ 126.29 Effect of TSOB Review Panel action.

(a) Any person substantially affected by a TSOB Review Panel's action, or the TSA Administrator when he decides that the Panel's action will have a significant adverse impact on carrying out 49 U.S.C. Subt. VII, Pt. A, may obtain judicial review in an appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals. The Administrators of the FAA and TSA must be made parties to any civil action filed in a U.S. Court of Appeals seeking review of a TSOB Review Panel action.

(b) If judicial review is not obtained, the action of the TSOB Review Panel is final and binding on the parties for the purpose of resolving the particular decision under review.

§ 126.31 Administration of proceedings.

(a) A TSOB Review Panel has authority to govern the conduct of its proceedings and internal operations by establishing any additional rules or procedures that are not inconsistent with this part.

(b) If TSA withdraws its Determination of Security Threat at any time after a notice of appeal has been filed pursuant to § 126.13(a), the proceedings before the TSOB Review Panel are rendered moot and closed. TSA must file a notice of withdrawal of the Determination of Security Threat with the TSOB Docket Clerk within five calendar days of such withdrawal.

(c) TSOB Review Panel proceedings will generally be closed to the public. A TSOB Review Panel may, in its discretion, open its proceedings to the public. Classified information, SSI, or other protected information shall not be disclosed during administrative proceedings, in accordance with § 126.25(d).

BILLING CODE 9110-9B-P

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

12 CFR Part 201

[Docket No. R-1776; RIN 7100-AG35]

Regulation A: Extensions of Credit by Federal Reserve Banks

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System ("Board") has adopted final amendments to its Regulation A to reflect the Board's approval of an increase in the rate for primary credit at each Federal Reserve Bank. The secondary credit rate at each Reserve Bank automatically increased by formula as a result of the Board's primary credit rate action.

DATES:

Effective date: The amendments to part 201 (Regulation A) are effective August 9, 2022.

Applicability date: The rate changes for primary and secondary credit were applicable on July 28, 2022.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: M. Benjamin Snodgrass, Senior Counsel (202-263-4877), Legal Division, or Lyle Kumasaka, Lead Financial Institution & Policy Analyst (202-452-2382), or Margaret DeBoer, Senior Associate Director (202-452-3139), Division of Monetary Affairs; for users of telephone systems via text telephone (TTY) or any TTY-based Telecommunications Relay Services (TRS), please call 711 from any telephone, anywhere in the United States; Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 20th and C Streets NW, Washington, DC 20551.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Federal Reserve Banks make primary and secondary credit available to depository institutions as a backup source of funding on a short-term basis, usually overnight. The primary and secondary credit rates are the interest rates that the twelve Federal Reserve Banks charge for extensions of credit under these programs. In accordance with the Federal Reserve Act, the primary and secondary credit rates are established by the boards of directors of the Federal Reserve Banks, subject to review and determination of the Board.

On July 27, 2022, the Board voted to approve a 0.75 percentage point increase in the primary credit rate in effect at each of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks, thereby increasing from 1.75 percent to 2.50 percent the rate that each Reserve Bank charges for extensions of primary credit. In addition, the Board had previously
