Title: FERC–725E, Mandatory Reliability Standards for the Western Electric Coordinating Council, Retirement of BAL–002–WECC–3.

OMB Control No.: 1902–0264

Type of Request: Retirement of BAL–002–WECC–3 from the FERC–725E information collection requirements

Abstract: FERC–725E is the information collection that is required to implement the statutory provisions of section 215 of the Federal Power Act (FPA) (16 U.S.C. 824o). Section 215 of the FPA buttresses the Commission's efforts to strengthen the reliability of the interstate grid through the grant of new authority by providing for a system of mandatory Reliability Standards developed by the Electric Reliability Organization (ERO). Reliability Standards that the ERO proposes to the Commission may include Reliability Standards that are proposed to the ERO by a Regional Entity.¹ A Regional Entity is an entity that has been approved by the Commission to enforce Reliability Standards under delegated authority from the ERO.² On June 8, 2008, the Commission approved eight regional Reliability Standards submitted by the ERO that were proposed by WECC.³

WECC promotes bulk electric system reliability in the Western Interconnection and is the Regional Entity responsible for compliance monitoring and enforcement. In addition, WECC provides an environment for the development of Reliability Standards and the coordination of the operating and planning activities of its members as set forth in the WECC Bylaws.

There are several regional Reliability Standards in the WECC region. These regional Reliability Standards generally require entities to document compliance with substantive requirements, retain documentation, and submit reports to WECC.

In RD26–5–000, FERC is retiring Regional Reliability Standard BAL–002–WECC–3 (Contingency Reserve), which requires balancing authorities and reserve sharing groups to document compliance with the contingency reserve requirements. NERC and WECC explain that “Regional Reliability Standard BAL–002–WECC–3 requires applicable WECC entities to maintain reserves at levels that exceed those required under the continent-wide Reliability Standard BAL–002–3—Disturbance Control Standard—Contingency Reserve for Recovery from a Balancing Contingency Event. Following a recent review of the regional standard, WECC identified that no technical basis supports the continued applicability of the standard, and that rather than advance reliability in the Western Interconnection, the regional standard may be presenting unnecessary challenges.

Type of Respondents: Balancing authorities and reserve sharing groups.

*Estimate of Annual Burden:⁴ Our estimates for a reduction in burden under 725E are specific to just BAL–002–WECC–3 entities no longer needing to be compliant with the applicable Requirements. Additionally, the estimate used information from the Electric Reliability Corp., 119 FERC ¶ 61,260 (2007).⁴ Burden is defined as the total time, effort, or financial resources expended by persons to generate, maintain, retain, or disclose or provide information to or for a federal agency. See 5 CFR 1320 for additional information on the definition of information collection burden.¹ S.D. Warren Company, 105 FERC ¶ 61,011 (2003).² 18 CFR 385.216(b) (2025).

approved standards. Estimates for the additional average annual burden and cost⁵ as follows:
