Abstract of Information Available

A total of 41 cultural items have been requested for repatriation. The 41 sacred objects are eight 'ulu maika (bowling stones), seven ko'i (adzes), five pōhaku lūhe'e (octopus lure sinkers), five mea pōhaku (stone objects), four pōhaku ku'i 'ai (poi pounders), four mea ku'i (stone pestles), three poho pōhaku (stone bowls), three 'ala o ka ma'a (sling stones), and two pōhaku (stones).

HM7057, an 'ulu maika (bowling stone), was donated by Miss Abby A. Steele of Portland, Maine to the Portland Society of Natural History in 1889. HM7057 was formally transferred to the Hudson Museum by the Maine Audubon Society, the successor organization to the Portland Society of Natural History, in 1995.

The remaining 40 objects—seven 'ulu maika (bowling stones), seven ko'i (adzes), five pōhaku lūhe'e (octopus lure sinkers), five mea pōhaku (stone objects), four pōhaku ku'i 'ai (poi pounders), four mea ku'i (stone pestles), three poho pōhaku (stone bowls), three 'ala o ka ma'a (sling stones), and two pōhaku (stones)—were collected by William S. Barnes on the island of Kauai in 1954–1955 while participating in archaeological fieldwork in cooperation with Mrs. Thelma Hadley and members of the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Museum. Barnes was permitted to take archaeological materials with him for his personal collection. Documentation from the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Museum confirms that Barnes was allowed to keep some of the archaeological material he excavated. In 1982, his widow, Ruth Barnes, donated the 40 objects listed above to the Anthropology Museum at the University of Maine, the predecessor of the Hudson Museum.

Determinations

The Hudson Museum has determined that:

- The 41 sacred objects described in this notice are specific ceremonial objects needed by a traditional Native American religious leader for present-day adherents to practice traditional Native American religion, according to the Native American traditional knowledge of a lineal descendant, Indian Tribe, or Native Hawaiian organization.

- There is a connection between the cultural items described in this notice and the Hui Iwi Kuamo'o.

Abstract of Information Available

Human remains representing, at least, one individual have been identified from southern Ohio (UBS 1995–24). No associated funerary objects are present. A student at the University of Toledo left partial human remains with an individual at the University around 1975. The individual gave the remains to their nephew who sent them to KSHS in 1995. A tag was found adhered loosely to the remains that read, 'Neolithic Mound Builder of Southern Ohio.' There are catalog numbers written on the remains, however, to our knowledge no hazardous substances were used to treat the human remains.

Cultural Affiliation

Based on the information available and the results of consultation, cultural affiliation is reasonably identified by the geographical location or acquisition history of the human remains described in this notice.

Determinations

The KSHS has determined that:

- The human remains described in this notice represent the physical remains of one individual of Native American ancestry.
- There is a connection between the human remains described in this notice and the Shawnee Tribe and the Wyandotte Nation.

Abstract of Information Available

A total of one cultural items have been requested for repatriation. The one lot of objects of cultural patrimony are one lot of ceramic sherds. In July of 2025, a piece of modern artwork was donated to the UCR Boyd Deep Canyon Desert Research Center from the family of a former Boyd director. The Boyd Center is one of UCR's Natural Reserves, which are outdoor field stations administered by the UC to protect natural environments from development and urbanization. It appears to be a mosaic of a Thunderbird made from pieces of archaeological ceramic, likely collected from the desert surface of Deep Canyon. The current director of the Boyd center spoke with the donor's granddaughter who remembered the artwork from a cabin that the family used to own and surmised that the pottery was collected by her grandmother when she lived with her husband, the former Boyd director, at the natural reserve.

Determinations

The University of California, Riverside has determined that:

- The one object of cultural patrimony described in this notice have ongoing historical, traditional, or cultural importance central to the Native American group, including any constituent sub-group (such as a band, clan, lineage, ceremonial society, or other subdivision), according to the Native American traditional knowledge of an Indian Tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.
