This helps us assess the impact of our information collection requirements and minimize the public's reporting burden. It also helps the public understand our information collection requirements and provide the requested data in the desired format.

A Federal Register notice (91 FR 23301) with a 60-day public comment period soliciting comments on this collection of information was published on April 30, 2026, we received the following comment, (summarized). The Northern Alaska Environmental Center (NAEC) supports renewing the USGS information collection for the Evaluation of the Arctic Rivers Project, emphasizing its value for understanding climate-driven changes in Arctic river systems and ensuring project tools remain relevant to Tribes, Indigenous Knowledge holders, and rural communities. The NAEC urges the USGS to refine burden estimates, use clear and purposeful evaluation questions, respect Tribal sovereignty and data protections, and reduce respondent burden through flexible participation options. Continued evaluation is seen as essential for strengthening community-centered science and improving the project's usefulness, accessibility, and accountability.

As part of our continuing effort to reduce paperwork and respondent burdens, we are again soliciting comments from the public and other Federal agencies on the proposed ICR that is described below. We are especially interested in public comments addressing the following:

(1) Whether or not the collection of information is necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the agency, including whether the information will have practical utility.

(2) The accuracy of our estimate of the burden for this collection of information, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used.

(3) Ways to enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and

(4) How the agency might minimize the burden of the collection of information on those who are to respond, including using appropriate automated, electronic, mechanical, or other technological collection techniques or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submission of response.

Comments that you submit in response to this notice are a matter of public record. Before including your address, phone number, email address, or other personally identifiable information (PII) in your comment, you should be aware that your entire comment—including your PII—may be made publicly available at any time. While you can ask us in your comment to withhold your PII from public review, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to do so.
