SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

The International Trade Administration’s (ITA) is mandated by Congress to, among other responsibilities, broaden and deepen the U.S. exporter base. It accomplishes this by providing counseling, programs and services to help U.S. organizations export and conduct business in overseas markets. This information collection package enables ITA to provide appropriate global trade services to U.S. businesses and international buyers.

ITA offers a variety of services to enable clients to begin exporting and global trade or to expand existing export and global trade efforts. Clients may learn about available services from business related entities such as the National Association of Manufacturers, Federal Express, State Economic Development offices, the internet or word of mouth. ITA provides a standard set of services to assist clients with identifying potential overseas partners, establishing meeting programs with appropriate overseas business contacts and providing due diligence reports on potential overseas business partners. ITA also provides other global trade related services considered to be of a “customized nature” because they do not fit into the standard set of services but are driven by unique business needs of individual clients.

The dissemination of international market information and potential business opportunities for U.S. companies interested and actively exporting and conducting business globally are critical components of the ITA’s global trade assistance programs and services. U.S. companies are able to conveniently access and indicate their interest in services by completing the appropriate forms via multiple ways, including via a website (e.g. trade.gov), web-based survey or form links, or paper-based forms.

ITA works closely with clients to educate them about the exporting/importing process and to help prepare them for global trading opportunities. When a client is ready to begin the process the field staff provide counseling to assist in the development of a global trade strategy. ITA provides fee-based, global trade-related services designed to help a client’s business presence internationally. The type of service that is offered to a client depends upon a client’s business goals and where they are in the export/import process. Some clients are at the beginning of the process and require assistance with identifying potential distributors, whereas other clients may be ready to sign a contract with a potential distributor and require due diligence assistance.

Before ITA can provide global trade and export-related services to clients, such as assistance with identifying potential partners or providing due diligence, specific information is required to determine the client’s business objectives and needs. For example, before ITA can provide a service to identify potential business partners, information is needed regarding if the client would like a potential partner to have specific technical qualifications, coverage in a specific market, English or foreign language ability or warehousing requirements. This information collection is designed to elicit such data so that appropriate services can be proposed and conducted to most effectively meet the client’s global trading goals. Without these forms ITA is unable to provide services when requested by clients.

The forms ask U.S. businesses standard questions about their company details, demographic information, export/import experience, information about the products or services they wish to export/import and their goals. A few questions are tailored to a specific program type and will vary slightly with each program. ITA staff use this information to gain an understanding of clients' needs and objectives so that they can provide appropriate and effective assistance tailored to each U.S. business' particular global trade requirements.

NTIA Listening Session on Screen-Based Instruction in K–12 Schools

AGENCY: National Telecommunications and Information Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce.

ACTION: Notice of open meeting.

SUMMARY: The National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) will convene a virtual listening session on screen use in schools, as it relates to the Federal Communication Commission's (FCC's) E-Rate program. The FCC has initiated a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (NPRM), which includes a public comment period, to examine whether the E-Rate program is serving the long-term interests of children—or instead encouraging excessive screen-based instruction in K–12 schools at the expense of child development and academic outcomes (<https://www.federalregister.gov/documents/2026/08/14/2026-16590/fcc-to-review-e-rate-program-to-ensure-congresss-vision>). This session invites parents, students, educators, and child development specialists to provide input into the NPRM process.

DATES: The listening session will be held on September 15, 2026, from 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time (EDT).

ADDRESSES: The session will be held virtually, with more details and online dial-in information to be posted at <https://www.ntia.gov/events-and-meetings/ntia-listening-session-fccs-e-rate-and-screen-use-nprm>.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Please direct questions regarding this notice to kids@ntia.gov, indicating “E-Rate Listening Session” in the subject line, or if by mail, addressed to National Telecommunications and Information Administration, U.S. Department of Commerce, 1401 Constitution Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20230; telephone: 202–941–0606. Please direct media inquiries to NTIA's Office of Public Affairs at press@ntia.gov.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background and Authority: The National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) serves as the President's principal advisor on telecommunications and information policy issues. NTIA's programs and policymaking focus largely on expanding broadband internet access and adoption in America, expanding the use of spectrum by all users, advancing public safety communications, and ensuring that the internet remains an engine for innovation and economic growth. This includes examining how broadband access is used in different contexts, including in educational settings. Pursuant to our authorities under 47 U.S.C. 902(b)(2)(M), NTIA will host a public listening session to gather stakeholder perspectives that will inform NTIA's ongoing research.

NTIA seeks participant feedback on the effects of screen-based instruction in schools, including one-to-one device policies; existing mechanisms and obstacles for parents seeking to opt their children out of classroom technology use; the content, effectiveness, and enforcement of school internet safety policies under the Children's internet Protection Act (CIPA); the nature and effectiveness of internet filtering in schools; the extent to which parents and teachers—as opposed to vendors, consultants, and lobbyists—have a voice in E-Rate program decisions; other mechanisms used to protect children when using E-Rate funded networks; the appropriate role of parents, schools, the FCC, and other entities in protecting children online; and other comments related to the internet access and online services provided through E-Rate funded schools and libraries. NTIA may collect feedback received during the session from parents, students, educators, and child development specialists regarding use time in schools and submit it to the FCC for consideration as part of the NPRM record. Individuals who are unable to attend, or who do not have the opportunity to speak during the session, may respond directly to the FCC's NPRM at <https://www.fcc.gov/ecfs/search/docket-detail/26-133>.

Other Information: All parents, students, educators, and child development specialists are welcome to speak at the listening session, time permitting. For privacy reasons, commenters under age 18 are asked to keep their camera off and not share personally identifiable information. The
