DOJ seeks PRA authorization for this information collection for three years. OMB authorization for an ICR cannot be for more than three years without renewal. DOJ notes that information collection requirements submitted to OMB for existing ICRs receive a month-to-month extension while they undergo review.

Overview of This Information Collection

Revisions to This Information Collection

ATF is revising this information collection, OMB 1140–0040, to reflect a decrease in the total annual public burden. The number of respondents has decreased since the last renewal, from 10,000 to 6,703, due to fewer respondents changing business premises. This resulted in a corresponding decrease in the number of burden hours, from 5,000 hours to 3,352 hours (rounded). In addition, because the form has become fully electronic—completing, signing, and submitting—the amount of time it takes to complete the information collection has decreased from .5 hours to 0.25 hours, resulting in a further decrease in hourly burden to 1,676 hours.

As part of this renewal, ATF is also revising the title of the form and the ICR for plain writing purposes, from “Application for an Amended Federal Firearms License” to “Application to Amend Federal Firearms License” to make it easier to read. In addition, ATF is making minor plain writing edits to text on the form.

Revisions to This Information Collection

ATF is revising information collection OMB 1140–0097, to reflect a decrease in the overall annual public burden. The number of respondents to this ICR have decreased from the last renewal in 2023, from 680 respondents to 670, because fewer persons applied for explosives licenses. This decrease also resulted in a corresponding decrease in the hourly burden, from 340 hours to 335. In addition, because the forms have become entirely electronic, the amount of time required to complete this information collection has decreased from 0.5 to 0.3 hours, further decreasing the hourly burden for this ICR to 201 hours.

As part of this renewal, ATF is also revising the form number from 5000.30 to 5400.30 to align with changes to ATF's numbering structure and is revising the title of the form and the ICR for plain writing purposes, from "Supplemental Information on Water Quality Considerations—Under 33 U.S.C. 1341(a)" to "Supplemental Information on Water Quality Considerations."
