Needs and Uses: The nation's communications networks provide a significant lifeline for those in need during disasters and other emergencies. Major disaster events, including Hurricane Ida, earthquakes in Puerto Rico, severe winter storms in Texas, and active hurricane and wildfire seasons, have demonstrated, however, that the United States' communications infrastructure is susceptible to disruption during disaster events. To address this issue, the Federal Communications Commission adopted a Report and Order in June 2022 to improve the reliability and resiliency of mobile wireless networks. See 87 FR 59329 (2022).

In the Report and Order, the Commission introduced the Mandatory Disaster Response Initiative (MDRI) and set forth requirements that the nation's facilities-based mobile wireless providers must take to ensure their compliance the MDRI. Pursuant to the MDRI, these providers must take action related to roaming with other providers, mutual aid agreements, municipal preparedness and restoration and consumer readiness and preparation. These providers must also submit reports to the Commission detailing the timing, duration, and effectiveness of their implementation of the MDRI's provisions on request, perform annual testing of their roaming capabilities and related coordination processes, and issue written denials of roaming requests, among other requirements.

The Commission submits this request to extend the information collection, which seeks to continue collecting information described in the Report and Order, to support its adoption of the MDRI. The collected information is and will be used by the Commission, consumers and consumer groups, service providers to realize significant public safety benefits. For example, consumers and consumer groups use the information to increase consumer education and improve consumer preparedness for disasters and other emergencies. Further, providers use the information to ensure that roaming will work expeditiously in times of emergencies and to better understand their network capabilities related to roaming and ensure their networks roam as effectively as possible when a disaster strikes. Further, the Commission uses information as a basis for potential future improvements to the MDRI and other programs in furtherance of public safety, including by gauging providers' compliance with the MDRI's roaming provision, ensuring accountability by providers who fail to comply and for resolving disputes related to roaming agreements. Thus, the information sought in this collection is necessary and vital to ensuring that the MDRI is effective at protecting the life and property of the public.

Title: 47 CFR 43.82, Annual International Circuit Capacity Reports

Type of Review: Revision of a currently approved collection.

Respondents: Business and other for-profit entities and State, Local, or Tribal Governments.

Number of Respondents and Responses: 3,269 respondents; 6,538 responses.

Estimated Time per Response: 1 to 20 hours.

Frequency of Response: Annual reporting requirement.

Obligation To Respond: Required to obtain or retain benefits. The statutory authority for this information collection is contained in Sections 1, 4(i), 4(j), 201–255, 303(r), 403, 413 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 151, 154(i), 154(j), 201–255, 303(r), 403, 413, and the Cable Landing License Act of 1921, 47 U.S.C. 34–39, and Executive Order No. 10530, Section 5(a) (May 12, 1954) reprinted as amended in 3 U.S.C. 301.

Total Annual Burden: 68,649 hours.

Total Annual Cost: $281,400.

Needs and Uses: The Federal Communications Commission (Commission) seeks approval from the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for the revised information collection for the annual submarine cable circuit capacity reports required pursuant to the Cable Landing License Act of 1921 and section 43.82 of the Commission's rules. On June 25, 2026, the Commission adopted a Second Report and Order and Second Further Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (Submarine Cable Second Report and Order), FCC 26–42, that modernized the Commission's submarine cable rules, including extending blanket submarine cable licensing to owners and/or operators of submarine line terminal equipment (SLTE). Per the newly-adopted rules, SLTE owners and/or operators are required to comply with some of the routine conditions imposed on submarine cable landing licensees, namely the rules regarding the annual circuit capacity reports. With respect to the annual submarine cable circuit capacity data collection, the Commission adopted a rule requiring SLTE owners and/or operators to comply with the annual circuit capacity reporting requirement under section 43.82 as a condition of the blanket submarine cable license. The Commission found that applying this routine condition to SLTE owners and/or operators will ensure the Commission has comprehensive and current information on SLTEs in furtherance of its national security objectives. Furthermore, these annual circuit capacity reports will strengthen the Commission's insight into the ownership and use of capacity on submarine cables regulated by the Commission and enable the Commission to identify foreign adversary-controlled entities and assess compliance with other rules the Commission adopted in the Second Report and Order for the blanket license.
