Abstract of Information Available

A total of one cultural item has been requested for repatriation. The one cultural object is a ''Group of 23 small blue and white rounded glass beads,'' ca. 1700–1730. This item came to the Gregg Museum as a transfer in 2015. This item was a part of a larger transfer from what used to be known as North Carolina Wesleyan College, established in 1956, and is now known as North Carolina Wesleyan University as of 2022. Based on consultation with the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina, the Gregg Museum of Art & Design identifies this item as an object of cultural patrimony of the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina. Gregg Museum of Art & Design records indicate no known hazardous substances.

Determinations

The Gregg Museum of Art & Design has determined that:

- The one object of cultural patrimony described in this notice has ongoing historical, traditional, or cultural importance central to the Native American group, including any constituent sub-group (such as a band, clan, lineage, ceremonial society, or other subdivision), according to the Native American traditional knowledge of an Indian Tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.
- There is a reasonable connection between the cultural item described in this notice and the Lumbee Tribe of North Carolina.

Requests for repatriation may be submitted by any lineal descendant, Indian Tribe, or Native Hawaiian organization not identified in this notice who shows, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the requestor is a lineal descendant or a culturally affiliated Indian Tribe or Native Hawaiian organization.

Repatriation of the cultural item in this notice to a requestor may occur on or after December 14, 2026. If competing requests for repatriation are received, the Gregg Museum of Art & Design must determine the most appropriate requestor prior to repatriation. Requests for joint repatriation of the cultural item are considered a single request and not competing requests. The Gregg Museum of Art & Design is responsible for sending a copy of this notice to the Indian Tribes and Native Hawaiian organizations identified in this notice and to any other consulting parties.
